Seawall Project Complete 2020

By SCOTT JACKSON

The replacement of 6,900 linear feet of seawall along Quincy Bay is set to start in March and will be complete by the end of 2020.

City officials and representatives from the engineering firm that designed the new seawall and the contractor that will build it hosted a community meeting on the plan Oct. 30 inside City Hall. About 30 area residents were in attendance.

The city will be replacing 6,900 linear feet of seawall between Chickatabot Road in Adams Shore and Babcock Street in Houghs Neck. The work is set to start March 15 and the contractor will have nine months to finish it.

The $17.8 million project will also include drainage improvements in the area of Chickatabot Road and a drainage study for the entire area behind the new seawall. Included in that will be a study of drainage in the Willows Marsh, the cost of which the city will split with the Army Corps of Engineers.

The sequencing for construction has yet to be determined, but the contractor is expected to begin somewhere in the middle with crews working toward both ends.

"Ideally we would like to start in the middle and work toward each end," said Paul Principi, a project manager for the contractor, Acton-based MIG Corporation.

"We want to go with two crews. There is going to be a lot of wall to get in in a short amount of time...starting from one end and going to the other, I don't think that is the right way to go."

The contractor will have to work around the tides, Principi added, which could require crews to work during early morning or late evening hours.

"We've got to work the tides when we're doing this. If not, there are days when I'm not going to be able to do anything," he said. "It's going to be early morning

172-Foot Chestnut Place Development Topped Off

By SCOTT JACKSON

The reinforced concrete structure that will comprise the skeleton of Quincy's tallest building is now complete.

A topping-off ceremony the morning of Oct. 25 marked the completion of the reinforced concrete structure of Chestnut Place. A piece of concrete with the logo of the general contractor, Lee Kennedy Company of North Quincy, with an eight-foot by twelve-foot American flag on top was hoisted 172 feet in the air to the top of the building during the ceremony. The workers on site and others members of the team constructing the building signed the concrete block before it was hoisted.

Developer Peter O'Connell is constructing the 15-story building on a portion what was once the Hancock Lot in Quincy Center. The $85 million building will include 140 one- and two-bedroom apartments, plus retail space on the first floor.

Sanford Contracting of Billerica is now installing fibrous concrete panels that will make up the skin of the new building. The panels

Downtown Garage Opening Mid-November

By SCOTT JACKSON

The new parking garage located on the Hancock Lot in Quincy Center could be open as early as the middle of this month.

The garage was expected to open in late October or early November. William Geary, the special counsel to Mayor Thomas Koch for the downtown project, said it should be open later this month.

"It should absolutely be finished sometime [in November]," he told The Sun. "We are looking at mid-November."

The construction of garage itself is finished and glass has recently been installed outside the structure's stairways, Geary said. Construction workers have been using the garage, in particular the roof, in recent weeks.

The city is still waiting for National Grid to install a transformer that will power the electrical components inside the garage, Geary said; the company is expected to do so shortly.

The garage has a temporary power source but needs a permanent source before it can open to the public.

A new civic space will be located between the garage and surrounding buildings. Geary said the new civic space will likely be ready to open when the garage is. Crews are putting the finishing touches on the civic space, including an irrigation system for the landscaping that will be present.

The new garage will have room for 712 vehicles. It will have 130 parking spaces in its basement, 78 spaces on the ground level, 125 spaces on the second floor, 131 spaces each on the third and fourth floors, and 117 spaces on the roof. Sixteen of the spaces will be handicap accessible, and some of the spaces will have charging stations for electric vehicles.

Approximately one-quarter of the total spaces will be leased to developers Peter O'Connell and LBC Partners for tenants who move into new residential LBC's 171-unit Nova Residences opened earlier this fall.

• On Nov. 22, 1718, Edward Teach, also known as Blackbeard, is killed off North Carolina's Outer Banks during a battle with a British navy force. In 1717, Teach took over a captured French merchantman from a retired pirate, increased its armament to 40 guns and renamed it the Queen Anne's Revenge.

• On Nov. 20, 1923, the U.S. Patent Office grants a patent to Garrett Morgan for his three-position traffic signal. By having a third (yellow warning) position besides just "Stop" and "Go," it regulated crossing vehicles more safely.

• On Nov. 23, 1936, the first issue of the magazine Life is published. When the original Life folded during the Great Depression, publisher Henry Luce bought the name and relaunched the magazine as a picture-based periodical.

• On Nov. 24, 1947, the House of Representatives votes 346 to 17 to hold 10 Hollywood writers, directors and producers in contempt for refusing to cooperate at hearings dealing with communism in the movie industry. It marked the start of a "blacklist" of names of Hollywood personalities suspected of having communist ties.

• On Nov. 19, 1969, Brazilian soccer great Pele scores his 1,000th professional goal. It was a major milestone in a career that included three World Cup championships.

• On Nov. 18, 1978, Peoples Temple founder Jim Jones leads 909 of his followers in a mass murder-suicide at their commune in a remote part of the South American nation of Guyana. While many of Jones' followers willingly ingested a poison-laced punch, others were forced to do so at gunpoint.

• On Nov. 21, 1986, National Security Council staff member Oliver North and his secretary, Fawn Hall, begin shredding documents that would have exposed their part in a range of illegal activities. Scenes From Yesterday

THIS IS A 1910 postcard view of Billings Street in Atlantic looking east toward the boulevard. Newbury Avenue crosses just beyond the parked car in the center of the picture. Electric trolleys ran on Billings Street from Newbury Avenue to East Squantum Street. The trolleys ran here from the old Atlantic Depot up Sagamore Street to Newbury Avenue turning right on Billings to Squantum Street. They then went on to Squantum ending at Squantum Park. Perhaps because the trolleys ran through here beginning in the 1890s, this was one of the first fully developed streets in Atlantic.

SCAM ALERT #1: BANK IMPOSTER SCAM

A new scam emerged this summer involving criminals posing as bank representatives and offering to pick up a customer's "compromised" bank card. This scam originates over the phone with the impostor offering to send a "senior services" agent to the house to pick up the credit card or debit card and PIN so the problem can be fixed. The crook then racks up credit card debt or drains checking accounts attached to debit cards.

Know this: banks don't have "senior service centers" from which they send bank employees to your home. If you get a call like this, hang up.

SCAM ALERT #2: FREEZING YOUR CREDIT

The sheer volume of data breaches makes all of us vulnerable to identity theft. Placing a freeze on your credit is one of the most effective ways to protect yourself from identity fraud — when someone uses your information to open accounts in your name, or even take over your existing accounts.

Here's what to know before you start the process. First, you will have to freeze your credit with each of the three major credit agencies: Equifax, Experian and TransUnion. You will also need to create passwords and PINs for each, so have a filing system for retrieving the information if you need to unfreeze your credit in the future. If you are placing a freeze for other family members, you will need their Social Security numbers.

SCAM ALERT #3: HOLIDAY PET SCAMS

The holidays are a popular time to add a new furry member to the family, but choosing a pet — especially online — can be tricky and sometimes dangerous. A national survey found that more than 80% of sponsored search sites offering pets for sale were fraudulent in 2017. The websites look legit and the "sellers" will ask you typical adoption questions, but the adorable photos you are falling in love with are stolen from legitimate sites. Once you start paying these scammers, the charges start to pile up for things like last minute medical needs or travel expenses, and the pet you've fallen in love with never shows up.

Thoroughly vet any online offering from breeders, shelters or rescue organizations. Better yet, consider adopting locally.

SCAM ALERT #4: CYBER MONDAY SCAMS

Everyone is on the lookout for the best Cyber Monday deal, which means scammers are on the lookout for you. Reported scams from fake shopping websites increased by 30% in 2017, according to Experian. Here are some tips to make sure the hot deal you're clicking on is really legitimate.

Be suspicious of any discounts larger than 55% off. Irregular contact information, such as a Yahoo or Gmail address instead of a corporate account, is another red flag. Web addresses that are overly complex, don't include the corporate name or don't start with https: are also indicators that your data and your money may not be safe.

Be a fraud fighter! If you can spot a scam, you can stop a scam.

Report scams to local law enforcement. Contact the AARP Fraud Watch Network at www.aarp.org/fraudwatch-network for more information on fraud prevention.

80 Percent Turnout Expected For Election

The Democrats' drive to take over the 13th Congressional District, state senate seat in the Quincy-Braintree District and at least three house seats, in addition to retain the one gained four years ago, is expected to be a major factor in bringing out the vote on the South Shore.

The 80 percent figure generally held four years ago in the list of off-year elections when there was not as strong a fight between the two major parties for local offices.

Both the Republicans and Democrats carried out strong registration drives to get every eligible voter on the voting lists.

At the Quincy city clerk's office, 440 absentee ballots have been processed to date.

In the last off-year election in 1954, 79.5 percent of Quincy voters turned out to cast their ballots.

BURKE WINS SEAT IN CONGRESS, DEMOCRATIC SWEEP INCLUDES S.S. OFFICES

The Democratic election sweep covered the South Shore, as well as the state and the nation when that party locally wrested from the Republicans a seat in Congress. James A. Burke (D-Milton) defeated State Representative William W. Jenness (R-Quincy). Mr. Burke polled 88,223 votes to Rep. Jenness' 77,247.

Democratic City Councillors Charles Shea, James McIntyre and Joseph E. Brett won seats in the state legislature, replacing incumbents, Republican State Senator Charles Hedges and Republican State Representative and Quincy Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa retained their seats in the state legislature.

'House Of Salt And Sorrows' A Novel By Erin A. Craig

'The Fine Print' Book Review

By BETH VACCA

I have an affinity for the re-telling of fairy tales. Classic and sometimes well known tales where the backstories of which can be taken in countless different directions. Imaginative authors develop characters and storylines that capture new, young readers and in the process hopefully raise their curiosity for the original classic. I love seeing how a creative author can take what is usually a one-dimensional fairytale character and give them life.

When my boys were young, I used to read to them from the original Grimm's fairy tales. I was on a mission to dispel what the Disney corporation had done to these characters. Needless to say, I mostly just horrified my children. I did, however, get my point across that life was not all roses and happily ever afters.

That being said, I never really understood the meaning behind the tale of "The Twelve Dancing Princesses". Is it simply to not lock teenaged girls in their rooms because it will not end happily? Or maybe that it just isn't a good idea to have twelve sisters share the same bedroom? I only have three sisters and I shiver at the thought. You would think a castle would have more bedrooms.

As much as I may have missed the meaning in the classic, I am grateful to Erin A. Craig for taking this tale and giving it some shape for me. In her novel, "House of Salt and Sorrows," Craig tackles this tale brilliantly. Sisters, love, death, stepmothers, curses, gossip, unsolved murders and fairy shoes! This book has it all.

The novel begins with the mysterious death of the fourth oldest sister. The three eldest sisters having already passed away under, at least on the surface, not very suspicious circumstances. This leaves our main character, Annaleigh, second in line to inherit her father's estate and position.

Annaleigh, in her grief, discovers that her sister who was found at the bottom of the cliffs was running away to elope with a boy from the nearby town. A boy her father would never have approved of marrying his daughter. This boy, clearly distraught, is convinced the sister was pushed. Annaleigh can't let it go.

To keep the younger girls minds off the death of their sisters and the "curse" the townspeople have been whispering about the older girls decide to play a game. A game to look for a door spoken about by the servants. A door that leads to whatever place your mind wishes to go.

The girls soon learn that running from their problems not only doesn't solve the problem, but may also be dangerous.

A novel written for the teenage girls in your life and for those of us who just enjoy honest and simple love stories. I am counting this book as a successful "beach read". Not a huge reach, the novel is set on an island.

So girls, grab yourself a chair and a blanket and bring this book to the beach. Just don't get too close to any cliffs. Or climb any ladders. Or drink the punch. And don't forget to read ... The Fine Print.

WHAT'S COOKING

Salmon Puffs

By MARIE

When we were all at home my mother would often make salmon loaf and we would have it with creamed peas, which became a family favorite. Recently I found a great recipe for salmon puffs which I think is a wonderful alternative to the salmon loaf.

Ingredients

- 1 large can on salmon (remove bones)
- 1 cup green bell pepper, diced
- 1/4 cup onion chopped

Salt and pepper to taste

1 egg

3 tablespoons olive oil (you can also use vegetable oil)

1 cup of bread crumbs (I used Panko)

Mix all of the ingredients together.

Once ingredients are well blended make small patties.

Sauté patties in hot oil until brown on both sides and drain on paper towel.

If not serving right away keep warm in a warming oven set at 200 degrees.

Millet Fritters

By SUSIE

Have you ever cooked with millet?

Millet is a very small, round grain with a history that traces back thousands of years. It was the chief grain in China before rice became popular and continues to sustain people in Africa, China, Russia, and India, among other places.

Millet is an extremely nutritious and hardy crop that grows well under harsh or dry conditions, both of which contribute to its widespread use and popularity around the world.

Millet can be used in porridges, cereal, soups and breads. It is a delicious wheat free substitution for couscous because of its consistency. Always rinse before cooking, and use 1 part Millet to 2 parts liquid. It is that easy! You can find it in the bulk section of the health food store.

I like to cook it in broth, and add a bunch of fresh herbs then put a pat of butter on it with some pecorino romano cheese as a side dish. But here is a recipe for Millet Fritters that I hope you will enjoy.

1/3 cup millet cooked according to package directions (I cook mine in salted broth for more flavor, and cook it a little extra to help to get it "Mushy" so it is a good consistency to make the fritters.)

1/4 cup onion, chopped fine

1/4 cup red bell pepper, chopped fine

1 garlic clove, minced

2 tablespoons olive oil

1 teaspoon dried basil

2 tablespoons or so of fresh parsley

1 egg, beaten

1 teaspoon sea salt, 1/2 teaspoon pepper

3 or so tablespoons romano or parmesan cheese

Simply mix all ingredients together (when millet is cooled) well with wooden spoon until nicely incorporated. Form into patties (a couple of tablespoons is a good size) and cook in heated skillet in some olive oil. Do not flip until edges are browned, but not burned. Flip over and cook until the other side is done. Drain on paper towel lined plate. This recipe is great with a spoonful of tomato sauce and a sprinkling of cheese! Enjoy!

Frosted Banana Bread Brownie Recipe

By MARIE

This recipe is called Frosted Banana Bread Brownies and it is one that I baked recently with a friend, Catherine.

When I asked her why they call it "brownies" since there is no chocolate in the recipe, she said it was because this dessert has the same texture and consistency of a brownie but without the chocolate - and also this recipe is cooked in a brownie pan.

Preheat oven to 375 degrees and grease 9 x 13 inch pan.

Ingredients

- 2 eggs
- 3 bananas, mashed
- 1 1/2 cups of sugar
- 1 cup sour cream
- 1/2 cup butter softened
- 1 tsp vanilla extract
- 2 cups of all-purpose flour
- 1 teaspoon of baking soda
- 3/4 tsp salt
- 1/2 cup walnuts chopped

In a large bowl beat together the sugar, sour cream, butter and eggs until creamy.

Then blend in bananas and vanilla.

When well blended add the flour, baking soda, salt and blend for 1 minute.

Stir in walnuts and spread batter evenly into pan. Bake at 375 degrees for 25 minutes or until golden brown. Toothpick should come out clean.

Cool slightly before frosting.

Frosting Recipe

- 1/2 cup butter
- 3 cups powdered sugar
- 1 1/2 teaspoons of vanilla
- 3 tablespoons of milk

To make the frosting, heat the butter in a sauce pan over medium heat.

When the butter reaches a medium brown color turn off heat and whisk in the powdered sugar adding milk until frosting thickens.

Then add vanilla stirring until well blended.

Pour over the warm banana brownies immediately and smooth with a spatula.

Completely cool brownies before cutting.

Smartphone Slouching Can Be Serious

A Message From Ruth Jones, City Of Quincy Health Commissioner

By RUTH JONES
MSPH, BSN, RN,
BC, CP-FS

A new survey conducted by the Orlando Health system in Florida, found that the health risks that arise from poor posture while using mobile devices, does not seem to concern many Americans. However, maybe it should. Poor posture can precipitate health issues such as chronic back pain, discomfort in the neck and knees, circulation problems and digestive problems.

American adults spend on average more than 3.5 hours on their smartphones every day, signifying that they may be looking down or slouching for extended periods of time. Cumulatively this totals 700 to 1,400 hours per year of excessive stress placed on the cervical spine. Additionally, high school students are spending an extra 5,000 hours bent over reading, texting, and typing on their devices.

This national study, published in October, questioned participants about their level of concern regarding eye strain, carpal tunnel and other potential health aftereffects of mobile device use. Only 47% said they were concerned about how it affected their health.

Nathaniel Melendez, an exercise physiologist at Orlando Health's National Training Center in Florida pointed out that when you put your body in a less-than-optimal position, whether it is reading a book, working at a desk or lying on the sofa, you are placing strain on the body. Furthermore, even minor misalignment can put a lot of strain on the body.

Melendez reiterated that for every inch your head moves in front of your body, 10 pounds of pressure is added to your shoulders. For example, when your head is 4 inches in front of your body looking down at your phone, it is similar to having a child sitting on your shoulders that entire time.

Experts remind us that the majority of problems instigated by poor posture are reversible with some minimal changes, specifically strengthening their core and doing some corrective postural exercises. For instance people who work at a desk or spend a lot of time sitting would benefit from raising their screens to eye height, sitting with both feet on the floor, and taking repeated breaks to get up and move around.

In a separate study conducted by Dr. Kenneth K. Hansraj, chief of Spine Surgery at New York Spine Surgery and Rehabilitation Medicine, it was noted that as the human head tilts forward the forces seen by the neck surge. When we hold our head in a healthy, neutral position, the forces to the cervical spine are about 10-12 pounds. But at a 15 degree tilt, that force increases to 27 pounds, 49 pounds at a 45 degree tilt and 60 pounds at a 60 degree tilt. Recurring increases in stress of this nature may lead to a myriad of neck issues, including early wear and tear, degeneration, and possibly the need for surgical intervention.

So what can you do to avoid the slouch?

• Hold Your Phone at Eye Level

Hold your phone at eye level when typing on your phone. This may look odd, but it will compel you to hold your head, neck, and shoulders in a more favorable position. This will force you to only use your phone for short periods of time, whereas when you sit and comfortably look down at your phone, you may be able to use your phone for long periods without undergoing any form of discomfort.

• Lie on the Floor

If you are at home or in a setting where you feel comfortable being on the floor, lie down on your back with your knees bent and your feet flat on the floor. Hold your phone over your face to text and surf the Internet. This position will put your head in the same plane as your shoulders, and will allow the muscles of your neck and upper back to relax. Additionally, your shoulder muscles will quickly begin to fatigue in this position, heightening your awareness of the amount of time you are spending utilizing your phone.

• Voice to Text

If your phone has a voice transcription feature, use it and talk your text messages, social media posts, and emails. This may take a little time to get accustomed to, but your neck, shoulders, and back will appreciate it.

• Remove the Distractions From Your Phone

The most radical, highly recommended, and most effective of all of these tips: remove social media, email, and games from your phone. Though this might sound ridiculous, just remember, there was a time in your life when you didn't have social media, much less even a portable cell phone. In its place, try scheduling designated time to handle your emails and social media from your computer where you can utilize proper ergonomics to support good body positioning as you type.

Escaping the cell phone slouch is straightforward and anyone can accomplish it. It simply requires a little self-discipline and awareness. Keep in mind it is a task worth doing for the transformation that it will generate in your neck, back, and the rest of your body, too!

Sheriff McDermott Pushes For Protections Against Elder Abuse

Norfolk County Sheriff Jerry P. McDermott recently testified before the Joint Committee on Elder Affairs to voice his support for legislation to address elder abuse and scams against our seniors.

Keeping senior citizens safe is a priority for Sheriff McDermott whose office's TRIAD program is a partnership between senior citizens and local law enforcement organizations to improve communication and better serve the needs of elderly residents.

"The TRIAD program has shown me how important it is to have an educated elder community. Seniors should know of threats to their health, their safety, and their financial security," Sheriff McDermott testified.

Legislation filed by Rep. Bruce Ayers (D-Quincy) would create and administer funds from a Senior Citizens and Disabled Persons Abuse Prevention Fund. These resources would be critical in the mission of programs such as TRIAD, in educating this at-risk population.

Sheriff McDermott added, "I hear on a regular basis, about scams and fraudulent behavior intended to take advantage of our senior population. Much work must be done to safeguard against those who would do harm or take advantage of our elder population."

Another bill addressed today, calls for the creation of a committee for the purpose of studying and drafting policies to combat the financial abuse of elders.

Following his remarks, Sheriff McDermott extended his appreciation for the work of the committee's Co-Chairs, state Sen. Patricia Jehlen and state Rep. Ruth Balser and the members of the Joint Committee on Elder Affairs for shining a spotlight on the issue of elder abuse, and offered his support in crafting legislation to tackle these serious problems.

Social Security Matters Ask Rusty – How Does My Husband's Federal Pension Affect Benefits?

By RUSSELL GLOOR

AMAC Certified Social Security Advisor
Association Of Mature American Citizens

Dear Rusty: My husband retired at his full retirement age of 66. He qualified for Social Security but also qualified for Civil Service Retirement System (CSRS). Being so, he falls under the Windfall Offset Provision, and subsequently had his Social Security benefit reduced from around $900 to $450. His full CSRS benefit is $3,400. I have not claimed my Social Security benefit, but I expect it to be around $2,000 at my full retirement age of 66 in November. At my full retirement age could I collect half of his benefit and let mine grow until age 70? Or upon filing, am I forced to take my full benefit instead? If I can take half of his benefit, would it be half of his full benefit or half of the reduced benefit? Also, upon claiming my benefit, would my husband be entitled to claim half, and thus increase what he is currently receiving on his own benefit? In addition, upon my death, would my husband qualify for my full Social Security benefit or is he subject to offset by the Windfall Offset or Government Pension Offset? Signed: Confused About SS

Dear Confused: Because of your husband's CSRS pension, his own Social Security benefit is reduced by the Windfall Elimination Provision (WEP), and any spousal benefit he may be entitled to will be affected by the Government Pension Offset (GPO). Both WEP and GPO are provisions which affect anyone with a pension from employment which did not participate in the Social Security program.

GPO is the more severe of these two provisions, because it reduces any spousal (or survivor) benefit your husband might be entitled to by 2/3rds of his CSRS pension, which means that he will not be able to get a spousal benefit from you when you apply (2/3rds of his CSRS pension is more than he would get as a spousal benefit). You, on the other hand, will be eligible (at your full retirement age, or "FRA," of 66) to file a "Restricted Application for Spousal Benefits Only," which will give you half of his WEP-reduced Social Security benefit (about $225/month). You are eligible to use the restricted application because you were born before January 2, 1954 (those born after January 1, 1954 cannot use this option). By doing so, you can collect a spousal benefit from your husband while allowing your own SS retirement benefit to grow by 8% per year of delay (2/3rds of 1% per month of delay) up until you are 70 years of age, when your benefit amount will be 32% more than it would be at age 66. But when you claim your benefit at age 70 your husband's spousal benefit won't be based on your increased amount, but rather upon your FRA benefit amount of $2,000, which means he still won't get a spousal benefit due to the Government Pension Offset.

Finally, if you should predecease your husband, the GPO will also affect his survivor's benefit, which is based upon 100% of what you were receiving at your death (not on your FRA benefit). So, using the numbers you provided, if your FRA benefit would be about $2,000 your age 70 benefit will be about $2,640 (not including COLA increases). Since 2/3rds of your husband's CSRS pension is $2,268, he'd normally be entitled to the difference $372 as his survivor's benefit. But since that amount is less than his own WEP-reduced SS benefit, he won't get a survivor's benefit. As you may be aware, the Federal CSRS plan has been replaced by the Federal Employee Retirement System (FERS) which participates in Social Security, so WEP and GPO do not apply to those who retire under FERS.

Hearing On Whitwell Street Proposal Postponed

By SCOTT JACKSON

The Planning Board hearing on a developer's plans for the former Quincy Medical Center site originally scheduled for tonight (Thursday) has been postponed.

A new date for the hearing has yet to be announced.

Quincy-based FoxRock Properties has proposed building 465 residential units at the site on 114 Whitwell St. The site contains 14.97 acres of land in a planned urban development zoning district. While the site is in a PUD zoning district, which would normally make the City Council the special permit granting authority, councillors voted previously to have the Planning Board review any proposal for the hospital property.

The board has held several meetings on the proposal previously, during which time area residents have voiced concerns about the size of FoxRock's plan. The company's original plan for the site, which was presented to the board in October 2018, included 598 apartments. In May, the company presented a revised plan with 490 units and the developer has since trimmed another 25 units from the proposal.

The board was scheduled to meet again to review the plan during a special meeting on Thursday. The applicant, however, sought a continuance on Oct. 31 because not enough board members would be present.

"In light of the fact that the city's extensive peer review for this project is now drawing to close, FoxRock strongly prefers to appear before a full Planning Board at the next public hearing for its proposed project," Jennifer Schultz, an attorney for the applicant, wrote to the board.

Residential Development Proposed For Southside Tavern

By SCOTT JACKSON

Ward 4 Councillor Brian Palmucci hosted a community meeting yesterday (Wednesday) to discuss a developer's proposal to build a 48-unit residential building on the site of Southside Tavern on Liberty Street.

The meeting began at 6 p.m. Wednesday in the Morrisette Post, located at 81-83 Liberty St.

Attorneys Robert Harnais and David Mahoney said the owners of the site hope to construct a six-story building on the site the bar now occupies. The first two floors would include 71 parking spaces with the 48 residential units located on the upper floors.

"We feel that due to the proximity of the [Quincy] Adams train station, this would be consistent with the transit-oriented development (TOD) that is presently needed," the applicant's attorneys wrote in a letter to Palmucci.

The parcel at Liberty Street contains 0.73 acres of land in an Industrial A zoning district, according to the city's online property records.

The project would require approval from both the Planning Board and Zoning Board of Appeals, Palmucci said in a letter to residents.

Seawall Project Seen Complete Next Year

work and maybe late, late evening work sometimes."

Al Grazioso, the city's commissioner of public works, said area residents would be given contact information for the contractor. The city will also have one of its engineers on call around the clock.

"Whatever concerns you have, aggravations, when you're going through this, we're going to be on call 24 hours, and we will do whatever we can to help resolve those issues," Grazioso said.

David Murphy, a principal with the engineering firm Tighe & Bond, provided an overview of the work that will take place. The existing revetment underneath the wall will be repaired as needed, he said. Helical anchors would then be driven into the revetment to stabilize the wall. A concrete leveling slab would be installed atop the revetment and then a four-foot concrete block that would comprise the top of the wall.

The current seawall stands 11 feet above mean sea level on average. The new seawall will stand two feet higher, bringing it to elevation 13. Murphy said the city will have the option to attach a second block atop the seawall to bring the barrier up to elevation 15, a four-foot increase over the existing structure, because of the helical anchors that will be in place.

"The anchors are put in there, at great expense to the city, in order to have a four-foot additional height wall," Murphy said.

"If we only build to elevation 13, two feet additional, the anchors aren't really required, but we have to do them now, so we are prepared for the four-foot [increase] whether it is today or 20, 30 years down the road."

Bernie Rines, a Terne Road resident, said the whole seawall should be built four feet higher than the structure it is replacing.

"This is our one and only chance to get it and get it right," she said. "I say, put it on now, as soon as we possibly can...and not have us worry for the rest of our lives about it."

The city has funding available to build the seawall in the area of Terne Road and Norton Beach to elevation 15, Grazioso said; the administration would have to seek additional funds to raise any other sections of the wall four feet.

Murphy said residents in other areas along the seawall preferred the two-foot increase over a four-foot increase.

"We heard from the other neighborhoods that they didn't want the four feet," he said. "There were a lot of voices of two feet only in the other neighborhoods."

The new seawall will include pipes with one-way valves that let water drain from the landward side of the barrier out to sea. The pipes and valves are made of a rubber-like material that allows debris to flow through instead of getting caught in the pipe.

"If you were used to the old cast-iron flap gates, they were always prone to getting debris stuck in there... sticks and seaweed would get stuck in there and the cast-iron flap gate couldn't close," said Duncan Mellor, Tighe & Bond's principal coastal engineer.

"These can actually pass debris through them. If things like cobblestones come down the drain pipe, this will actually flush it out...We think these are going to be a big improvement."

Other communities, including Weymouth, have installed similar drain pipes, Mellor said.

The neighborhoods behind the new seawall were among the areas of the city hardest hit by the March 2018 nor'easter that caused flooding in coastal areas.

"It was a very difficult time for everybody, especially those of you sitting in this room," Murphy said. "It was that storm that launched this to go as fast as we could to get to completion. The city has worked extremely hard to get here."

The permitting process, which Murphy referred to as "exhaustive," involved various state and federal agencies, plus the Quincy Conservation Commission. Murphy said the final two permits — including one from the Army Corps of Engineers and a Chapter 91 license from the state — should be issued imminently.

Ward 1 Councillor David McCarthy said public feedback during the design process, which included community meetings in 2018 and 2019, was important.

"It has been a good project. It's been a solid project," he said. "The community involvement was very, very successful, I think, in getting the feedback and trying to put the best product up there for everyone on that coastline."

Ceremony Celebrates John Adams' 284th Birthday

By SCOTT JACKSON

On what would have been his 284th birthday, John Adams was remembered for the affection he had for his hometown and his support of an educated citizenry.

A wreath-laying ceremony to celebrate the second president's birthday was held Oct. 30 inside the United First Parish Church. Adams and his wife, Abigail, are both entombed in a crypt below the church along with their son, John Quincy Adams, the nation's sixth president, and his wife, Louisa Catherine.

Dr. Edward Fitzgerald, the executive director of the Quincy Historical Society, said Adams kept himself grounded by recalling Quincy during the time he spent away from home in the period before and during the American Revolution.

"Adams used Quincy, I think, to keep himself grounded throughout his life, particularly when he was away — when he was in Philadelphia for the Continental Congress and particularly when he was in Europe and on his own," Fitzgerald said.

"He sustained himself not only with thoughts of Abigail and home and the letters they wrote to one another, but also you could see, whenever he began to feel that the lures of the sumptuousness of Europe were pulling on him, he would stop and remind himself of the simple virtues of Quincy and his farm at the base of Penn's Hill."

The values Adams learned while residing in Quincy not only shaped his life, but also helped form the United States, Fitzgerald said.

"He not only felt affection for Quincy, I think he really believed Quincy and the values of Quincy that he had found had helped to form him and more than that...had helped to form the new republic," Fitzgerald said.

"He became, I believe, in the last years of his life very interested in making sure that those values...would be preserved," Fitzgerald added, noting Adams established the trusts that paid for construction of a new United First Parish Church building and the school that would come to be known as the Adams Academy, where the historical society is now based.

Quincy's residents share a special bond with Adams to this day, Fitzgerald said.

"He kept faith with Quincy and Quincy kept faith with him through all the years and all the changes that have come to this community since his death," the historian said.

"We still feel a special bond with him, not only in the buildings but in the spirit in which he built them in the search for basic qualities of life, basic qualities of government and of freedom. We remain true to him here and he still holds a special place in the hearts of Quincy's people."

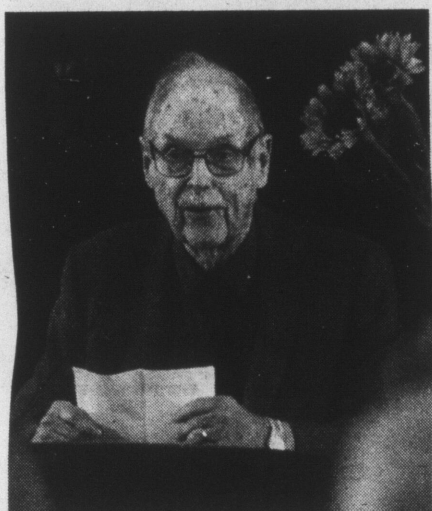

Students from each of Quincy's high schools — the Woodward School and the city's two public high schools — remembered Adams for including in the Massachusetts Constitution a guarantee that the government would educate its youths.

"In Quincy, we are fortunate to be educated in the shadows of where the Adamses called home," said Ashley Vazzana, a student at the Woodward School. "Where Abigail taught her son, to keep the farm and taught a young John Quincy the virtues of being an independent, life-long learner. Where John Adams drafted the words that molded the minds and democratic character of over two centuries of people, including each of us here today.

"Together, we can follow their examples in the classroom and in the streets to be a people that strive for honesty and sincerity, civil engagement, and teach others to do the same."

Hannah Murphy, a student at Quincy High School, said Adams' dedication to the American people remains unquestionable.

"One of the ways in which his commitment is most evident is in the Massachusetts Constitution, which not only inspired changes made in the founding documents of many other states, but served as a model for our national government," Murphy said. "Its clause on education was extremely progressive, guaranteeing the people of our commonwealth the right to knowledge when many worldwide were not afforded that opportunity.

"He framed education as an imperative. It is not just a suggested power, but the duty of legislators and magistrates to cherish the pursuits of literature and the sciences. Adams' foresight ensured we are able to value and enjoy education today as much as he did then."

Phillip Austin, a North Quincy High School student, said it is important to remember Adams and other historical figures were real people who put their lives on the line for the causes they believed in.

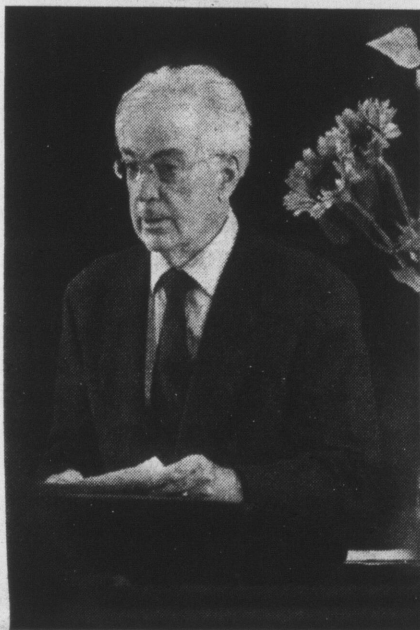

"At the forefront of the ideology that developed this nation from its inception was the undeniable intrinsic value of education liberally distributed for the citizenry of a democratic nation. Adams and his compatriots of course understood too well the grating effects of governance by empire," Austin said.

"We therefore cannot allow ourselves to lose sight of the prices paid for such a political and philosophical inheritance. Let us remember that our great historical figures were real, living Americans with lives to lose and families for which to worry."

Douglas Adams, a descendant of John and Abigail, said he was delighted to focus on his forefather's love of education.

"It is a delight to focus on such a rigorous discipline, nor a difficult task as most of what John accomplished, he credited to books, thought and deliberative actions," he said. "Always opinionated, he respected intelligent opposition."

Douglas Adams said the second president's support of education was made evident by John Quincy Adams' support for the Smithsonian Institution and Henry Adams, a grandson of the sixth president, was a noted historian and author. His posthumous memoir, "The Education of Henry Adams," won a Pulitzer Prize.

In her benediction, the Rev. Rebecca Froom, the minister at the United First Parish Church, said education is a lifelong journey and said those in attendance should live their lives informed by the ideals Adams supported.

"As we go forth from here, may we each remember that education is a lifelong journey. May we find joy in learning. May we support and encourage one another in the pursuit of this gift of education," Froom said.

"May our minds continue to expand, and may our lives continue to be informed by the highest ideals that we have shared with our ancestor, John Adams."

Lt. Comm. Ryan Seggerty of the Navy Operational

Support Center Quincy placed the wreath on the second president's tomb on behalf of President Donald Trump midway through the ceremony.

The Quincy Choral Society performed "Coming

Home" and "America the Beautiful" while Seggerty and the dignitaries on hand left the sanctuary to place the wreath; volunteers from the church interpolated "Coming Home" with readings from the letters John and Abigail Adams wrote to each other.

Ward 5 council seat, Charles Phelan Jr. of 298 Fenno St. defeated Stephen Christo of 42 Standish Ave. Phelan, who served as the Ward 5 city councillor from 1988 to 1996, won by 286 votes — the closest margin of victory of any contested race Tuesday. Phelan polled 1,372 votes while Christo — making his first bid for elected office — received 1,086 votes.

The Ward 5 seat is being vacated by four-term incumbent Kirsten Hughes who did not seek re-election this fall.

In Ward 6, incumbent William Harris of 74 Ashworth Rd. was re-elected to his third term defeating first-time candidate William Isenberg of 36 Carle Rd. Harris received 1,766 votes while Isenberg polled 830 votes.

In the school committee contest, incumbents Kathryn Hubley of 44 Marion St. and Paul Bregoli of 80 Willow Ave., were re-elected to third four-year terms. Also winning a school seat was Frank Santoro of 14 Lois Ter., former principal at Quincy High School who served two terms on the Quincy School Committee in the 1980s. Vote totals for the winners were 8,508 for Hubley, 8,000 for Bregoli and 6,459 for Santoro. Finishing fourth and not winning a school committee seat was Courtney Perdios of 86 Ruggles St. who polled 5,990 votes — 469 votes behind Santoro.

The third incumbent school committee member, James DeAmicis, did not seek re-election.

Two city councillors were unopposed in Tuesday's election. Ward 2's Brad Croall won his fifth term and Ward 4's Brian Palmucci won his sixth term. Croall received 1,489 votes and Palmucci 1,450 votes.

Commenting on his re-election victory, Koch said: "It's obviously a great feeling. You work hard every day and nights like this give you the affirmation that you are getting the job done. This is an outstanding community and I am proud to be able to continue to serve."

Koch, 56, of 249 Newbury Ave., was first elected mayor in 2007 and was re-elected to two-year terms in 2009, 2011 and 2013. In 2015, he was elected to a four-year term, the first in Quincy's history after voters approved doubling the mayoral term in a referendum two years prior. Koch was previously the head of the city's Park Department, chief of staff to then mayor

James Sheets for five years and director of the Council on Aging for three years.

Koch, when he takes the oath for his sixth term Jan. 6, will become the city's longest serving mayor as he begins his 13th year in office. Two other mayors served 12 years: James A. Sheets (all 12 under Plan A) and Amelio Della Chiesa (four years Plan E, eight years Plan A.)

As for priorities for his next term, Koch said:

"I want to continue to re-invest in the community — invest in education and public safety."

As for being the longest serving mayor, Koch said:

"I never gave the whole idea a lot of thought, but people kept bringing it up to me. Della Chiesa is a legend in the city and Sheets, when you look at the numbers he did, to be in that kind of company is special."

Two Males Arraigned In Connection Of Death Of Former Quincy Man

Two adult males were scheduled to be arraigned at Norfolk Superior Court at 2 p.m. Wednesday relative to the incident at the Nicker-son American Legion Post in January resulting in the death of Mr. Christopher McCallum, the Norfolk County District Attorney's office announced Tuesday.

Mr. McCallum, a 44-year-old North Quincy native and resident of Bridgewater, died Jan. 28 following an altercation outside the Post home. His death was later ruled a homicide by the state medical examiner.

The matter was under seal by the Court; that seal was expected to be lifted at 2 p.m., at which time additional details are expected to become public, said David Traub, spokesman for the Norfolk DA's Office.

WBZ News, citing unnamed sources, identified the suspects as Matthew and Steven Potter, the sons of a retired Quincy Police detective.

More information on this developing story will be posted on The Quincy Sun website - www.TheQuincySun.com - following Wednesday's arraignment.

Plans Unveiled For Proposed Special Education Center

By TOM GORMAN

The school committee got its first look at plans to develop a special education learning center in Wollaston that would serve the district's special needs students.

Quincy School Supt. Dr. Richard DeCristofaro and special education and elementary curriculum director Erin Perkins outlined the proposed plans to the committee on Oct. 30. Officials are proposing to purchase and renovate a three-story office building that was once Howard Johnson's candy factory on Old Colony Avenue behind Central Middle School and convert it into learning center that would provide programs for special education students that now are sent to out-of-district facilities. Officials are hoping to open the center next fall.

Mayor Thomas Koch said it would cost $8.5 million to purchase the building from Eastern Nazarene College and renovate it. He said keeping students in-district would realize a substantial cost-savings to the city.

"Even by staffing the building, doing the renovations and purchasing the building, we will save a half million dollars the first year," he told the committee before the presentation. "Moving forward...there could be savings of millions of dollars. That's amazing to me."

Koch said the school budget continues to grow and the savings from the special education in-district program "would allow us to do more" in the school spending plan.

The city transports about 150 special needs students to out-of-district programs at a cost of $80,000 to $100,000 per student. The learning center could service possibly 30 of those students plus other special education students in the city. Koch noted, however, there are some that require care beyond what the district could provide.

"We want to keep students here at home," he said. "There are certain kids in the special needs population that require extra, special care. We can't do it all, but, I think we can make great strides keeping kids here in the city."

The city council is expected to vote on Koch's proposed $8.5 million appropriation on Nov. 18. If approved, DeCristofaro would then work with an architect to draw up a detailed plan that would go before the school committee for a final vote.

The learning center presentation got off to a rocky start when committee member Douglas Gutro objected that the agenda called for his colleagues to vote on the plan immediately following the presentation. He argued that it was the first time anyone has seen the plans and that the public had no input, adding that the Citywide PTO was hosting a forum on the proposal the following week on Nov. 6. Additionally, he said the vote would be in violation of the committee's rules.

Colleague Paul Bregoli disagreed, calling Gutro's objection "absurd" and accused him of trying to delay the process.

Koch said the vote was to show the city council that the school committee was endorsing his proposed $8.5 million appropriation for the project.

After some back-and-forth dialogue, Vice Chairwoman Emily Lebo called for a recess to discuss Gutro's objection. After a few minutes hashing it out in the hallway with colleagues, she reconvened the meeting and said the presentation would go on, but, the committee would not take a vote at this time.

According to Perkins, the new center would serve students in prekindergarten through middle school. There will be four grade levels: prekindergarten and kindergarten; kindergarten through grade 2; grades 3 to 5; and grades 6 to 8. Each level will be known as a "neighborhood" and be developmentally appropriate.

"Our vision is to create an atmosphere that promotes personal independence and enables students to become active members in their community," she said. "Our goal is to provide instruction designed to address students' communication and social skills, academic abilities, and social emotional needs in a school that is located within their own community."

Some of the center's unique features that will be available for all students are a motor room, adaptive playground for wheelchair students, music therapy room, and sensory spaces. Also, there will be a vocational life skills classroom in the grade 6 to 8 neighborhood outfitted with a kitchen, laundry area, and simulated workshop. Each classroom would be outfitted with the latest technology that includes forms of alternative and augmentative communication.

Each neighborhood would have its own look.

"Calming colors will identify and differentiate between each learning neighborhood," Perkins said. "We will create a calming atmosphere for sensory students."

For the staff, there will be a professional development room with a resource library. Also in the plan is a parent center.

"Parents and families will be a key component of the learning center with the creation of the parent center," said Perkins. "This space will include resource materials for parents, meeting rooms, and a space to hold parent workshops and parent academies throughout the school year."

The prekindergarten neighborhood will be located on the first floor featuring "a nurturing atmosphere." Perkins said thematic play will be utilized to help develop social, emotional, communicative, and cognitive skills.

The prekindergarten CARES program - for students ages 3 to 5 - will feature a combination of one-on-one, whole group, and small group instruction and focus on skills, socialization and developing a readiness to learn. This program will help develop self-help skills such as dressing, toileting, and eating while promoting independence, expanding communication, and increasing social interactions.

The prekindergarten integrated neighborhood, also servicing students ages 3 to 5, will offer a four-day-half-day program for students ages 4 and 5, and two-day, half day program for 3-year-olds. Both will have 15 students, a teacher and as paraprofessional. Social-emotional, self-regulation will be the key component with thematic play.

On the second floor will be the kindergarten through grade 2 neighborhood.

Perkins said the primary program will feature a structural language-based learning environment "designed to meet each child's unique needs."

For students ages 5 to 9, the program will focus on "applied behavioral analysis" to develop language, social interactions, and self-help and daily living skills.

The grade 3 to 5 neighborhood, serving students ages 9 to 12, is to be located on the third floor and will be centered on a structured, language-based environment and utilize individually designed academic instruction. There will be a focus on money-management, cooking, self-care, community and leisure skills to increase student independence.

"We hope to see a building of skills and independence as we move through the grade levels," Perkins said. "Individual student needs will be continually reviewed when assessing student response to the use of various academic, emotional, and social skills curricula as well as ensuring the appropriate level of support related to teacher, student ratio throughout the school day to promote progress."

Each classroom will have a special education teacher along with specialists, depending on the program, such as speech, occupational, and physical therapists along with paraprofessionals and music teachers.

Teachers will work with students one-on-one or in small groups. Each student will have a program book that includes their detailed Individualized Education Plan (IEP). Teachers will record data in the book daily noting student challenges and progress.

The learning center schedule would be 8:30 a.m. to 2:34 p.m. for all grades except the integrated pre-kindergarten. The latter would have a morning session from 7:35 a.m. to 10:10 a.m. and the afternoon session from 11:10 a.m. to 1:50 p.m.

Perkins said in addition to classroom programs during the school day, afterschool activities would also be offered. This would include childcare options at the center and home-based consultations and support as indicated in students' IEP. The learning center will also offer a six-week summer program.

Transportation would be provided in accordance with a student's IEP.

The learning center will be offering a full service breakfast and lunch providing healthy and balanced meals in two dining areas.

Several local organizations have expressed interest in partnering with the district for the learning center. These include South Shore Hospital, Quincy YMCA, Work Inc., Milton Hospital, South Shore Autism, and Melmark.

DeCristofaro said that about 20 staff members and Citywide PTO members toured the building to see its potential. A list of questions was drawn up that will be addressed to parents and members of QPAC (Quincy Parents Advisory Council) in early December. He noted that the state Department of Education will be assisting the district with its plan.

Koch said the proposal of providing in-house special education programs has been talked about by previous mayors and school committees, but, nothing came to fruition.

"I think it's something long overdue," he said.

Thursday Meeting On Trolley Proposal

By SCOTT JACKSON

A request for a permission to fuel, maintain and store trolleys at what is now an ambulance depot in North Quincy was put on hold so the applicant can further reach out to area residents.

Ward 6 Councillor William Harris is set to hold a community meeting on the proposal tonight (Thursday) at 6 p.m. in the Kennedy Center at 440 E. Squantum St.

Old Town Trolley Tours sought a fuel storage license and an automotive repair license for the premises at 199 Commander Shea Blvd. during the Board of License Commissioner's meeting on Oct. 22. No vote was taken at that meeting after board members suggested further outreach was needed; the matter will be back before the board on Nov. 12.

The site at 199 Commander Shea Blvd. includes 3.29 acres of land in a Business B zoning district, according to the city's online database. The property is owned by Hudson Media, which formerly used the warehouse on site to distribute newspapers before leasing it to Fallon Ambulance a decade ago.

Fallon in 2008 received permission from the licensing board to store ambulances and fuel on site, as well as a repair license for Central Ave Auto Service, according to Edward Fleming, the attorney representing Old Town Trolley Tours.

Fallon was allowed to store more than 2,000 gallons of gasoline and diesel in an underground tank on the site, Fleming said, plus 3,000 gallons of gasoline

Route 53, Duxbury Mon-Sat 9am-6pm

On Monday, Oct. 28, at approximately 2:10 p.m., multiple police units were dispatched to the area of Lancaster and Fowler Street for a report of a male in a blue hooded sweatshirt trying to break into cars.

Within half a minute of being dispatched, Sgt. Daniel Flaherty radioed that he might have the suspect in the Wash & Dry parking lot located at nearby Washington Street. Officer Jamie Parisi arrived on scene quickly to assist.

Sgt. Flaherty reported that just as information was being given out, the caller with phone in hand approached him to state the suspect was in the area of the strip mall which included the 7/Eleven store and the Wash & Dry. Sgt. Flaherty located a suspect who matched the physical and clothing description. The sergeant checked the suspect's pockets and found a Bank of America debit card in someone else's name, which the suspect claimed he found on the ground. Sgt. Flaherty detained the 16-year-old suspect in the backseat of his cruiser and then checked the area for car breaks.

On Lancaster Street officers located a Jeep that had its soft top zipper pulled open to access the vehicle. A Toyota's front door was ajar and the glove box was open with the contents strewn about. As the officers were looking at these vehicles, two citizens approached inquiring what was going on. After the officers told them, one citizen said that the Jeep belongs to his girlfriend and confirmed that the soft top had been unzipped enough for someone to reach in but he didn't believe that anything was stolen. The other citizen said the Toyota belongs to his uncle but nothing was taken. She said he saw the suspect pulling on door handles of her neighbor's car. She added she has lived in the area for many years and knew that the suspect did not live in the area.

While keeping an eye on the suspect, she saw him enter the Toyota, sit in the front passenger seat then get out and try the handles of at least two other cars as he walked away. She said one of the cars was a Volvo and one was a red car. Officer Parisi checked the area and found the two cars in question. Sgt. Flaherty brought the witness to the suspect's location and she said he was "definitely" the person she saw trying doors and entering the Toyota.

When Officer Parisi advised the suspect he was under arrest for breaking into cars, the suspect said, "Why? Because some lady saw me bend over next to a car and tie my shoe?" Officer Gaeta placed the suspect, a 16-year-old Dorchester resident in handcuffs and transported him to the station. The juvenile was released to the custody of DCF.

Sgt. Flaherty was able to get in touch with one of the victims, a teacher at Point Webster School. He confirmed that it was his car that was broken into and that his debit card was stolen. Nice Work!

ANOTHER JOB WELL DONE:

On Thursday, Oct. 31, at approximately 1 a.m., Officers Scott Doherty and William Griffin were dispatched to Falls Boulevard for a report of a domestic dispute.

On arrival the officers were flagged down by a female on this quiet wooded road. She was upset and crying, stating that earlier in the evening she and her boyfriend got into an argument with two of his friends in their homeless camp about someone stealing her Adderall.

The verbal arguments quickly turned into a physical altercation between the victim and her boyfriend, who told her that he was going to torture her all night and crush her bones. Her boyfriend then bear-hugged her, squeezing her very hard and then pushed her to the ground where he bent her arm back so far she thought it was going to break.

As she was on the ground, her boyfriend wrapped his legs around her neck while pulling back on her arm, threatening to break it as he squeezed his legs around her neck strangling her. She told the officers she believed her life was at risk, couldn't breathe and felt like she was going to pass out. She said this went on for about 10 minutes with him squeezing his legs around her throat strangling and then releasing so she could breathe a little bit.

At one point he let go of his hold and she was able to run away and scream for help. In panic, she said, "They are going to come after me now but f@#$ it I don't care." She stated that "They have hatchets and knives in their homeless camp and yesterday morning my boyfriend threatened to blow them all up." When asked how he was going to do that, the victim said he would use his torch and blow up the propane tanks while they were sleeping in their tents.

The officers then went into the woods and located their camp site where the boyfriend was. The 36-year-old male was placed him under arrest for strangulation and assault and battery on an intimate partner.

The victim was transported to the hospital for evaluation along with an asthma attack. She was also provided with abuse laws materials and her options on getting a restraining order. Nice Work!

Creeping into the oncoming traffic lane while trying to make a left turn will put you "at fault" in almost all accidents since you do not have the right of way. It is best to stay inside your lane with your left directional on and wait until it is safe to make the turn. An at fault accident may result in a ticket and up to six years increase in your auto insurance.

Squadron 294 Salutes Service At Veterans' Day Ceremony

By TOM GORMAN

Veterans past and present were honored during a Veterans' Day Observance at Flags for Veterans Island at Fort Square on Sunday hosted by Morrisette Post Squadron 294 of the Sons of the American Legion.

About 50 local officials and residents joined veterans as they gathered at the traffic island adorned with 400 American flags that serves as a veterans' memorial. Each flag represents a veteran except one — that honors prisoners of war and those missing in action. Additionally, the island features a walkway with engraved bricks and benches that pays tribute to veterans.

The ceremony was held a week before Veterans' Day that will be observed on Monday, Nov. 11, when the nation pauses to remember its veterans.

"Veterans' Day is a day that we honor all of our veterans and those who have served, are still serving, and those that paid the ultimate sacrifice to keep America free," Squadron 294 Commander Paul Moody told the gathering. Reciting a quote from President John F. Kennedy, Moody added, "This day is a day in honor of our men and women who have served in the Armed Forces for the United States of America in all wars past and present."

Following a prayer from Sons of the American Legion chaplain Don Knight, squadron members raised the flag on the island and Abigail Coughlin of Quincy, a Fontbonne Academy student, sang the national anthem.

Flanked by color guards of Houghs Neck Boy Scout Troop 42, North Quincy High School Junior Air Force ROTC, Ladies Auxiliary Post 294, Quincy police and fire departments, Guy Ferris, dual member of Squadron 294 and Sons of the American Legion, said the ceremony is to honor both the flag and the nation's veterans.

"By these ceremonies, we seek only to raise the level of reverence for our national symbol and bring increased recognition to all of our nation's veterans," he said as the sea of flags behind him fluttered in the breeze.

Donated Memorial Flag At Mount Wollaston Cemetery

The flag pole at the World War Memorial at Mount Wollaston Cemetery overseeing the veterans lot has a new donated memorial flag.

The flag is in memory of P.F.C. Arthur Lafleur, U.S. Army. He served during the Vietnam era in Germany for three years in Company A 4th Q.M. BN APO 326. He lived Quincy for many years before moving to California to retire. He also is a past commander of the Cyril P. Morrisette Post #294.

Arthur was one of four brothers who served in the QUINCY BUSINESSMAN Peter O'Connell, developer of Chestnut Place, signs his name to concrete block that was ceremoniously raised at a topping off for the $85 million residential project Oct. 25. The block affixed with an American flag was then raised to the top of the 172-foot, 15-story building (photos at right and below) with a crane. Views from the top of the building appear on Page 19.

on the first eight floors will be completely installed by Friday, O'Connell said, and the whole building will be sealed sometime in December.

Chestnut Place is set to open on July 1, 2020, and tenants could begin leasing the apartments as soon as January, O'Connell said; the monthly rent for the units will range from $2,000 to $3,800.

HarborOne Bank has signed a letter of intent to lease part of the retail space on the first floor, O'Connell said, and he is in negotiations with a coffee shop to take over the remainder of the space.

O'Connell, age 76, has developed a number of projects in Quincy, his hometown. They include Marina Bay, State Street South and Granite Links. Chestnut Place, he said, gives him a sense of pride because of the role the building will play in the revival of Quincy Center.

"It is real prestige, union job," O'Connell said.

Chestnut Place will be the tallest building in Quincy once it is complete. O'Connell is optimistic a future building will surpass it.

"I hope somebody will build a taller one," he said.

O'Connell credited Lee Kennedy and the subcontractors who have worked on the project for the job they have done to date. The subcontractors include G&C Concrete Construction of Haverhill, who built the reinforced concrete structure of the building.

"They worked like crazy and did a really good job," O'Connell said of G&C, who played a similar role in the construction of One Dalton, a 61-story building that opened in Boston's Back Bay earlier this year.

"Lee Kennedy is running the job and doing a great job," O'Connell added.

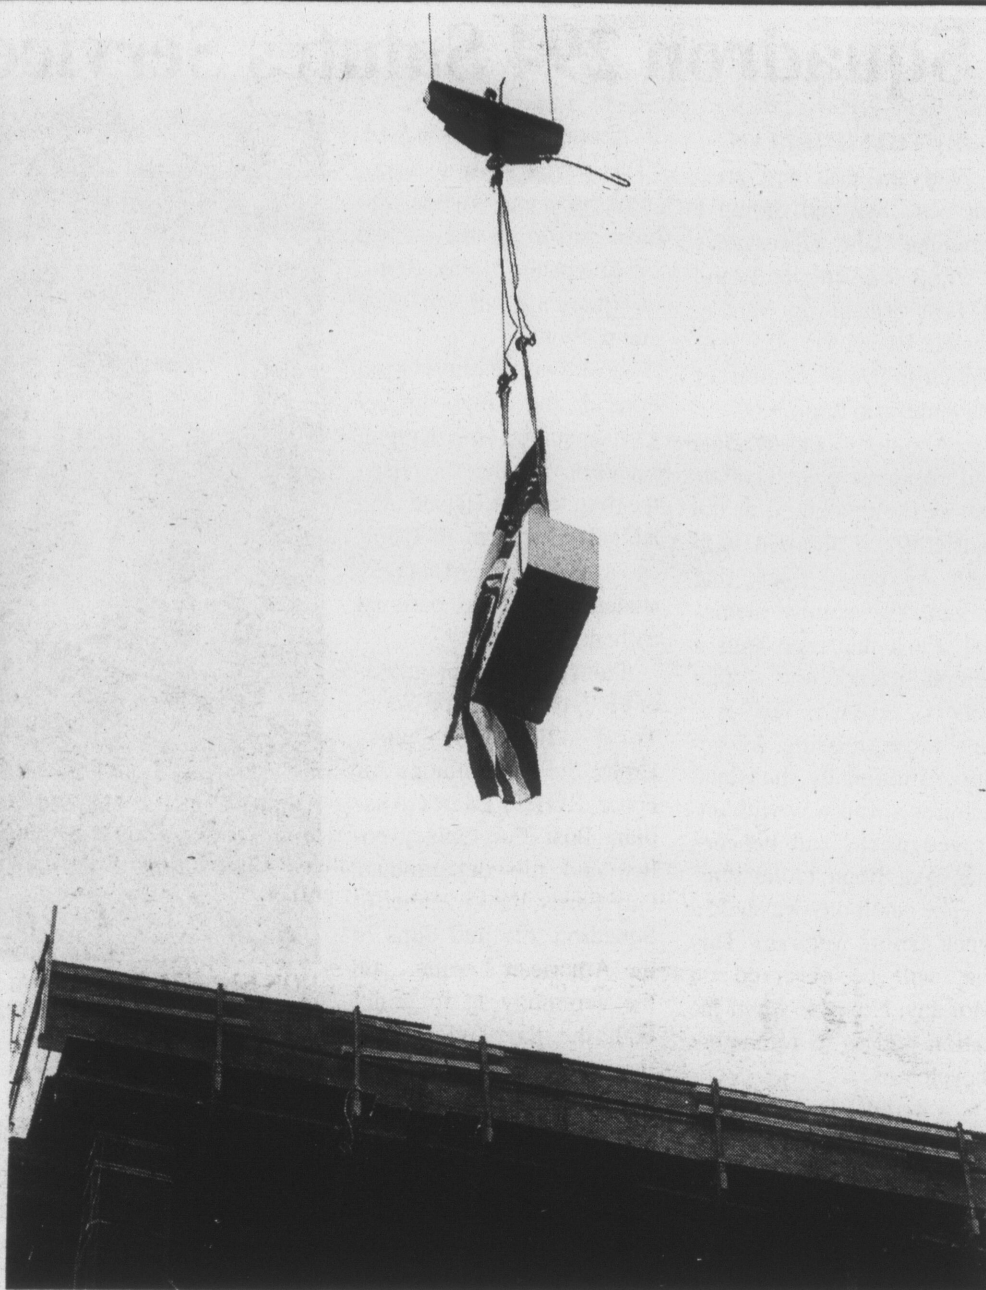

Chestnut Place is one of three new structures rising on what was once the Hancock Lot.

Earlier this fall, LBC Partners' Nova Residences, a 171-unit apartment building, opened on the portion of the lot closest to Hancock Street.

The city is also putting the finishing touches on a 712-car garage located between Chestnut Place and Nova Residences. Roughly one-fourth of the spaces in the building will be set aside for residents of those two buildings.

The city is spending $46.6 million to construct the new garage and create new civic space in the areas between the parking structure and the buildings around it. Funding for the work was included in an $80 million district improvement financing bond the City Council approved in June 2017.

Earlier this year, Mayor Thomas Koch proposed a land disposition agreement between the city and LBC that would allow the company to develop the remaining portions of the Hancock Lot — the corners of the lot on Revere Road. The size of those two new buildings had yet to be determined at that time.

Mayor Thomas Koch referred to an old inscription discovered on Gibraltar that read in part "for when war is over and all things righted, God has neglected the old soldier slighted."

"I would suggest not so in Quincy," Koch said. "This city has a great tradition of service to our nation and the city has a great tradition in honoring all of our soldiers, sailors and our airmen. On behalf of a grateful city, I want to thank our veterans who came home after distinguished service and became doctors, lawyers, policemen, firemen, teachers, and laborers, and continue to serve the community locally, and we are better people for it."

Noel DiBona thanked the squadron for establishing the Flags for Veterans Island.

"This is a great day for our veterans and to remember what they sacrifice for us - the men and women,"

he said. "Look what's established here at this island we drive by every day, to see the 400 American flags."

In his keynote address, Ferris paid tribute to what he called the "giants" of Quincy's veterans.

He talked of his father, WWII Army Air Corps and Air Force Col. John M.

"Jack" Ferris who earned the Distinguished Flying Cross, Air Medal, command pilot with nearly 10,000 flying hours. Born in Michigan, he enlisted in the Army Air Corps where he earned his wings then served in several places and was later stationed at Hickam Air Force Base in Hawaii next to Pearl Harbor with his wife Katherine, their two children and her mother.

"No one was thinking about war, they were going to dances and having a good time," he said. "But on Dec. 7, 1941, everything changed (when the Japanese bombed Pearl Harbor). The colonel season, they worked hard in the week leading up to the Belmont game to put themselves into playoff mode.

"We've done a ton in transition work, speed work," Presidents head coach Jacqui Niosi said. "We've been working out with stairs and running to make sure we're in better shape and just overall, speeding up our offense a bit. Some of our assistants have been working with our middles to speed things up."

The Presidents started off the game against Belmont strong, putting up three straight points with Mona Ly serving. They kept their momentum going, capitalizing on Belmont's mistakes, including a pair of hitting errors and a botched serve to go up 10-5, forcing their opponent to call a timeout. The two teams split the next 10 points and then, Belmont went on a 6-1 run to tie the game at 16 apiece. It also got tied at 17 and 18 all, but Allison McMorrow gave the Presidents a 19-18 lead on a thunderous kill.

From there, a pair of Belmont hitting errors put the Presidents up by three points and an ace from Ashley Grehan extended the team's lead to four points, 22-18. Ultimately, the Presidents took the set 25-23 on a kill by Juliana Tracey which got tipped by a Belmont defender.

In the second set, a pair of bad serves from Belmont helped the Presidents take an early 3-1 lead and the Presidents kept that momentum going, forcing Belmont to call a timeout with the score at 7-1. However, the Presidents extended their scoring run to 10-0 to go up 11-1 on a spike from McMorrow which hit the line on the right side of Belmont's half of the court.

Belmont fought back with an 8-2 run of their own, but the Presidents countered with a 5-0 run to go up 18-

9. Four of those points came with Emma Glavin serving and on three consecutive serves, she had aces. The Presidents won the set 25-16 on another kill from Tracey.

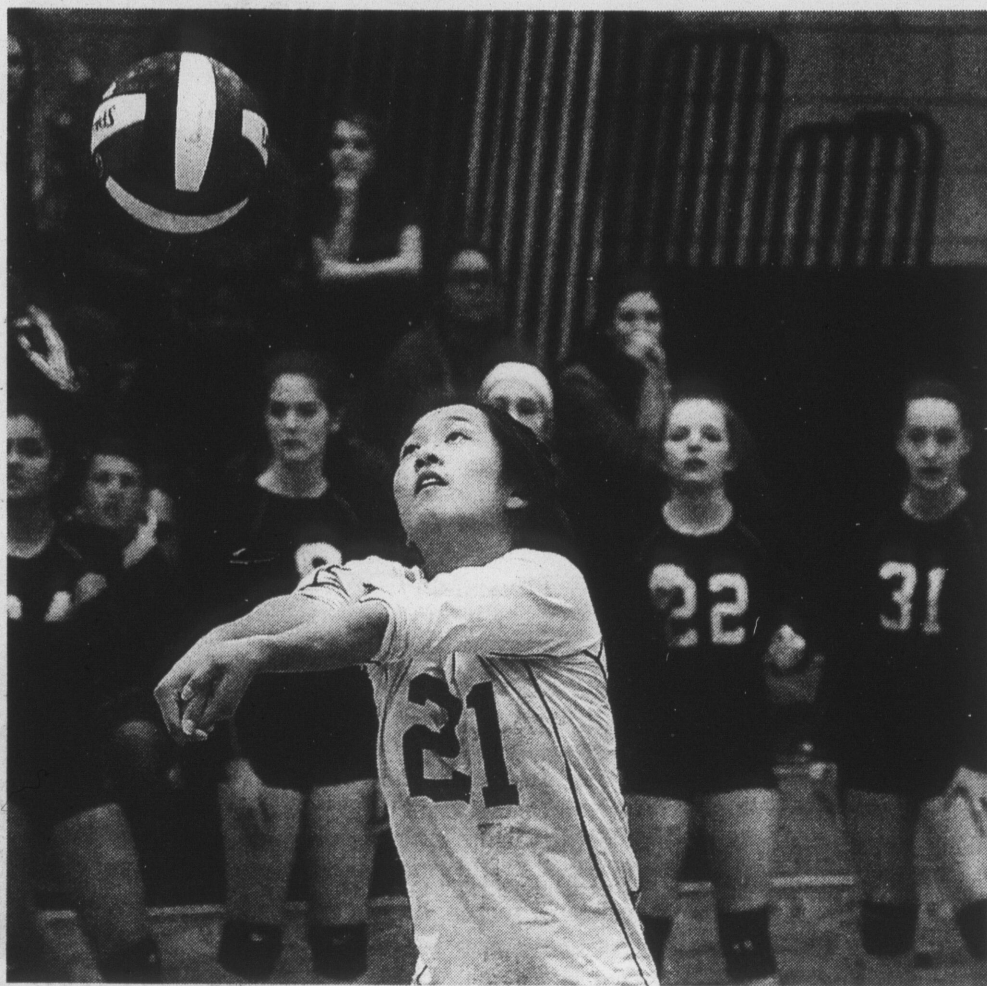

Once again, the Presidents got off to a hot start in the third and final set of the contest. With Mona Ly serving on six straight points, the Presidents took a 6-1 lead, forcing a Belmont timeout. However, Belmont came out of the timeout alert and began to close the gap. They eventually tied the set up 15-15 and went on a 6-1 run to lead 21-15.

"We called that timeout and I told them, 'guys, Belmont knows that if this set ends their season is over. They're gonna fight and scrap for everything,'" Niosi said. "We just needed to calm down and focus on basics. We were scrambling trying to make every play perfect as opposed to making every play solid."

The Presidents recovered.

Ashley Grehan had a serve Belmont could not return and Tracey had a block to bring the team within three points, 22-19. Then, the Presidents capitalized on a few Belmont mistakes. Belmont had a hitting error, a carry and spiked the ball into the net to make it a tie game. Then, McMorrow gave the team the lead on a spike and the Presidents took back the lead two points later, 24-23, as Glavin lofted one over the head of a Belmont defender.

Rachel McKenna scored the match point for the Presidents. She had a hit Belmont defended but when they hit the ball right back at her, they tipped her kill shot and could not defend it. The Presidents won the set 25-23.

During the Presidents' comeback in the third set, they stayed composed despite the deficit.

"You just have to not think about the score but what you have to do on the court," Alyssa Ruan said. "If you're able to that, you'll get back up there."

McMorrow had a team-high 10 kills in the match while Tracey and McKenna were second with seven apiece. On defense, Ruan led the way with 12 digs; Grehan, Tracey and Ly had eight apiece. Glavin's 20 assists were a team-best and she and Ly each had four aces while serving. Niosi said Julia Kapcia also performed well for the Presidents.

With the win, the Presidents moved on to face King Philip in the Div. 1 Central/East Sectional Semifinal on Wednesday, Nov. 6.

"I think it's just more of the same," Niosi said. "It's still volleyball but normally, it gets a little faster as you go, so we're working on staying fast, communicating and just trusting our instincts."

QUINCY'S ALLISON McMORROW had a team-high 10 kills in the Presidents' 3-0 sweep over Belmont Monday.

Braintree Edges Quincy On Two-Point Conversion, 15-14

Presidents' Isaiah Steinberg Rushes For 198 Yards

By TOM JOYCE

The Braintree High football team took a risk, making the game come down to one play. It worked.

The Quincy Presidents hosted Braintree in non-playoff action last Friday night at Veterans' Memorial Stadium and on their second touchdown of the game, Braintree converted a two-point conversion and ended up winning the game 15-14. With the loss, the Presidents fell to 1-7 on the season.

"It's disappointing," Presidents head coach Kevin Carey said. "We played very well for the first half. We didn't play for 48 minutes, but you have to in order to win. That's the bottom line. We came out strong. They had a good drive in the second half where we almost had them on fourth down, but we missed too many tackles in the second half. They had a pretty good defensive line that pushed us backwards. You can't win football games if you're going backwards."

With 9:27 remaining in the game, Quincy punted and Jarod Walker laid down a big hit at the Braintree 27-yard line for a tackle. Braintree took their time on the drive, using their option-heavy offense to slowly move down the field on the ground. They would end up scoring on a three-yard quarterback buck sweep with 2:51 remaining in the game, making the score 14-13.

Conventional wisdom would have told Braintree to go for the tie and kick an extra point. However, they didn't. Their tailback punched in the two-point conversion from three yards out on a trap run. This put Braintree up 15-14.

When the Presidents got the ball back, Braintree's tough defense limited them to three yards on three runs, forcing them to throw on fourth down. Then, Braintree tipped quarterback Amarion Robinson's (2-for-4, 19 yards) pass, regaining possession. Braintree then knelt the ball down on three straight plays to end the game.

Although Quincy did not win the game, they thrived in the first half. At halftime, they led 14-0.

Offensively, much of that success could be credited to running back Isaiah Steinberg, who led the team with 198 rushing yards on 32 carries. This included a 56-yard touchdown run on the first drive of the game -- on a fake punt attempt. Steinberg took the first three carries of the game for a combined six yards. On fourth and four on the Presidents own 44-yard line, he swept around the edge, blew past the Braintree defense and into the end zone for a touchdown. Kicker Billy Hibbard hit the extra point kick, so the team led 7-0 with 9:36 remaining in the first quarter.

"He's an incredible player," Carey said of Steinberg. "You put the ball in a good guy's hands and good things happen. He made a heck of a play for us on that fake punt. That set the tone in the first half and we really moved the ball in the first half."

Quincy's defense then forced a pair of Braintree three-and-outs, aided by two incomplete passes and a fumble. On Braintree's third drive of the game, however, defensive back Devin Desmond got an interception for the Presidents. A false start pushed Braintree back five yards. Thomas Le then flawlessly read the handback play Braintree had prepared and pummeled the running back for an eight-yard loss. Braintree picked up seven yards on run to bring up third down, but still had to throw on third-and-16. They did -- and Desmond caught it. He returned the ball about 25 yards to the Presidents 49-yard line.

Quincy had several tackles for losses on Braintree's handback play, indicating they came in prepared for Braintree's deceitful offense.

"You really have to rep it up," Carey said. "You look at what could beat us. They're running misdirection. They're running counter action. We do the best we can to put it on the offensive scout team to recreate those plays in practice -- and that's what we keyed on."

The interception by Desmond set up a Presidents' scoring drive capped off by a 14-yard touchdown pass from Robinson to Trenton Souza with 3:44 remaining in the first half; Hibbard's extra point kick made it 14-0 Presidents.

Albeit the touchdown came in the air, most of the yards on the drive came on runs from Steinberg. Other than a two-yard run from Souza and the touchdown pass, all of the yards came from Steinberg's runs.

On their final drive of the first half, Braintree had to punt yet again thanks to tackles for losses from Bobby Jaehnig and Le.

Momentum changed in favor of Braintree in the second half as they enjoyed success with methodical drives as they mixed up their play calling. Braintree opened the second half with the ball and ate more than five minutes off the clock on their drive. Braintree scored on a 24-yard quarterback blast to finish off a 61-yard drive. The extra point was good, so the team trailed 14-7.

Offensively, the Presidents did not enjoy the same level of success in the second half as they did in the first; they did not have any offensive red zone situations in the final two quarters.

Quincy is scheduled to play Brookline Friday. Time and place to be announced on QHS website.

Red Raiders Football Defeats Oliver Ames, 12-7

By TOM JOYCE

The North Quincy High football team ramped up its defensive pressure, and it made the difference.

On the final play of the game in their contest against Oliver Ames at Veterans' Memorial Stadium last Friday night, the Red Raiders defense forced a bad throw to preserve a 12-7 victory in non-playoff action. With the win, the Red Raiders improved to 3-5 on the season.

"We had a lot of guys go down the previous week and we had guys step in," Red Raiders head coach Ryan Craig said. "It's a tough game. Oliver Ames is a good team and we had some guys come in, step up and make plays when they needed to."

The Red Raiders started the second half with the ball, but due to a personal foul, they started off on their own 15-yard line. The poor field position hindered their chances of scoring, but they ended up finding the end zone anyways.

The Red Raiders used about 10.5 minutes of clock time on an 18 play, 85-yard drive to score the first touchdown of the contest. Early in the drive, especially, the team relied heavily upon running back Tyler Le (25 carries, 71 yards), who had 13 carries in this 18 play sequence. A 13-yard run by Josh Jackson brought the team into the red zone and before that, a 17-yard pass from Cooper Hansen (16-for-27 passing, 179 yards) to Colm Geary (7 catches, 69 yards) put the team in favorable field position. Ultimately, the Red Raiders scored on a seven-yard strike from Hansen to Jamal Maximilien with 1:12 remaining in the third quarter. The extra point kick missed, making it a 6-0 game.

"We just told them we don't have to do anything special," Craig said. "Run the football and keep it simple. Let's pound the ball and see what we can get. We got three and four yards a chunk and that's it. It kept us going."

OA answered in the fourth quarter, enjoying success in the air. A 39-yard completion put them at the Red Raiders' 26-yard line and while a holding penalty looked as though it would stall the drive, it would not. OA converted on third-and-20 with a 31-yard completion to get down to the five-yard line on a cross route. Then, they ran in a five-yard touchdown on a belly. OA hit their extra point, taking a 7-6 lead with 3:17 left in the game.

With little time left, the Red Raiders also turned to their passing game for a response. It worked.

A 15-yard pass from Hansen to Declan Geary got the ball around midfield and a 32-yard pass from Hansen to Brendan Hines on fourth-and-four put the team at the 13-yard line. Three plays later, Hines caught a 13-yard touchdown. The two-point conversion pass attempt was incomplete, but the Red Raiders led 12-7 with 46 seconds left in the game.

An unsportsmanlike conduct penalty against OA allowed the Red Raiders to kick from OA's 45-yard line and freshman Nate Caldwell booted a touchback on the kickoff following the score. "We put him in uniform on purpose," Craig said of Caldwell. "We need a kicker and we trust him. We don't even blink when he comes in. We have confidence in him."

This gave OA unfavorable field position and yet, the game still came down to the last play.

OA passed their way down the field and tossed an incompleteness under pressure at the Red Raiders' 30-yard line. However, a roughing the passer penalty brought them up to the 15-yard line with no time on the clock, allowing them to run one last play.

On it, Mike Levine and Mike Gordon got pressure on OA's quarterback, forcing an incomplete pass just right of the end zone to end the game.

Craig said the team's pass rush from the defensive line, including Gordon, Levine, Brandon Baker and Harry Gaudiano, among others, was vital to the team's victory.

"OA has a traditional Wing-T style offense and they execute it well," Craig said. "We had to be disciplined to contain it. They have some good athletes and they played a real good game tonight. This thing came down to the wire."

OA started the game off with the ball, but could not hold onto it. On the second play of their first offensive drive, OA fumbled and the Red Raiders recovered the fumble, giving themselves possession around midfield.

The Red Raiders could not capitalize on this position. Although they gained a first down on a 23-yard strike from quarterback Cooper Hansen to tight end Colm Geary, OA played a tough run defense which brought up fourth-and-eight at the 25-yard line. An incompleteness there ended the drive. And on the following Red Raiders drive, they tossed an interception.

Both teams had a hard time moving the ball the final minutes of the first half when the Red Raiders had some success in the air. Tough defense from the Red Raiders and a holding penalty brought up fourth-and-20 for OA with 3:41 remaining in the first half. With under a minute left in the half, the Red Raiders' drive stalled on the OA 23-yard line following four straight incomplete passes.

Before that, however, they moved the ball well in the air. Tyler Le made a shoestring grab on a 22-yard reception for a first down and a 15-yard pass interference call with Andrew Gott as the intended wide receiver helped the team move the ball quickly. When OA got the ball back, they picked up a first down on the ground but did not have enough time left to put together a drive. At halftime, the game was a scoreless tie.

North Quincy is scheduled to play at North Attleboro Saturday at 1 p.m.

QC Cross Country Running Club, ENC Compete In First Granite Cup Meet

Quincy College first year cross-country head coach John Furey envisioned something special to end his team's inaugural co-ed cross country season, and on Nov. 2nd his vision culminated in a cross country meet at Merrymount Park in Quincy as Quincy College Granite Cross Country Running Club hosted Eastern Nazarene College in the first annual Quincy Granite Cup cross-country meet.

"Quincy College Athletic Director Jack Raymer and I thought this would be a great fit for the two Quincy colleges to start an event that we hopefully can continue for years to come," said Furey.

Quincy College Granite's enthusiasm was contagious on a beautiful fall sunny day but the overall experience of the Eastern Nazarene Lions showed as they came away with the victory and took the Granite Cup back to their Wollaston campus.

"It was not about the final result this year," said

QUINCY COLLEGE Interim President Michael Bellotti with Quincy College Granite Cross Country Running Team and Eastern Nazarene Lions at the inaugural Granite Cup held at Merrymount Park in Quincy Nov. 2.

Quincy College Athletic Director Jack Raymer, reflecting on the inaugural season of Quincy College Cross Country Running Club. "This season was about the experience our team gained and the enthusiasm they showed as we hope to expand our first-year program, in numbers and in completion. We hope to compete in the National Junior College Athletic Association Division III cross country competition in the future here at Quincy College."

The Granite Cup concludes Quincy College Granite's season. Head Coach Furey praised the efforts of his runners: Samuel Lathrop of Pembroke, Patrick Joseph and Svetlana Dunn of Brockton, Lorkens Exumat and Nyjah Poole of Dorchester, Emerald Anderson and Elizia Padre of Weymouth, Ayana Dahl of Braintree, Yemi Okufuwa of Randolph, and Kensley Nelson of Hyde Park.

What does the future hold for Quincy College Granite? Head Coach Furey will be traveling to local high schools looking for runners who want to be part of a great cross-country running experience at Quincy College. However, due to a production error, Page 28 was not published last week (Oct. 31). The Sun is printing last week's Page 28 in this week's issue (Page 27). Please note that the youth football write-up that appears below contains references to games that were already played last weekend.

Quincy Youth Football Week 8 Highlights

Jr Presidents, Apaches Will Go Head-To-Head In Playoffs • United Grade 5 Remains Undefeated

When the 2019 Bay State Youth Football schedule was released last summer, all members of QYFCA looked eagerly to see when North and Quincy 8th grade would compete in the upcoming season, only to be disappointed to learn no game between the Quincy teams was scheduled. So, the players took care of it on the field, and both the North Quincy Apaches and Quincy Jr Presidents will advance to the Bay State playoffs and will square off in the first round, with the winner advancing to the semi-finals. It's the match-up everyone in QYFCA wanted to see, as both teams played great football this year, and were good enough to be seeded 4th (Apaches 6-2) and 5th (Jr Presidents, 4-4) when the playoffs begin on Sunday.

The final weekend of the regular season ended on a cold, soggy Sunday, as Quincy United and the Apaches hosted Weymouth and Walpole in a wind-swept rain storm lasting the entire day, and the Jr Presidents traveled to Norwood.

Grade 8 – The Jr Presidents were missing several key players as they faced the Norwood Mustangs Sunday morning and suffered a 14-0 loss, dropping Quincy to 4-4 on the season. The Jr Presidents will try to re-group this week, and prepare for their playoff game with the Apaches. North Quincy battled Weymouth to an impressive 28-6 win over the Wildcats. Quarterback Charlie Baker hit Will Conley on a screen pass and a 35-yard touchdown to open the scoring for North. Later in the first, Ben Hudach raced 20 yards to the end zone for another Apaches' touchdown, and Noel Sanchez kicked the extra points to increase North's lead to 14-0. Later in the game, Hudach had another touchdown on a 12-yard run, Sanchez again kicked the extra points, and Baker closed out the scoring for North with an 8-yard touchdown run. Tucker MacDonald had a good game on offense with solid blocking, and playing well on defense were Emmet Walsh, Manny Hailellassie/Halpin, Ben Walinjom, and Simone Trainor.

Grade 7 – Quincy United 7th graders also took on Weymouth Sunday in the midst of a tropical storm. The weather conditions heavily affected team offenses, as continuous rain poured throughout the game and Quincy struggled to execute plays. Weymouth scored the game's only touchdown on a 26 yard run in the 4th quarter, and held on to edge Quincy 6-0.

Quincy had many reasons to leave the field with their heads held high. The season ended for Quincy just one win short of advancing to the playoffs.

Quincy Head Coach Mike Flavin said following the game, "The weather was no excuse today. We were out played. Weymouth made the plays when they needed too. I can't express how proud we are of the kids this season. It's been a pleasure coaching this team. We improved each week so there is a lot to look forward to next season."

Quincy entered the game with injuries to some of their main players. Flavin praised the efforts of Nate Goff, Sean Szilva, Dominic Perry, Liam Lee, Phil Le, Jovany Morales, Matt Toland, John Jordan, Cam Sampson and the team's two main standouts, Quarterback Mike Galligan and leading tackler Anthony Melchione.

Grade 6 – Hard work eventually pays off, as the United 6th graders found out ending their season on a positive note with their first victory, a 33-0 shutout over the Weymouth Wildcats. Coach Mike Killilea praised a total team effort by his players in the win.

Coach Killilea following the game said, "Outstanding offensive and defensive performance by all of our players today, future is bright with this 6th grade squad."

Quarterback Tim Toland opened the scoring for Quincy with a 21-yard touchdown, the conversion attempt failed, but Quincy had a 6-0 lead. Later in the half, Toland added his second touchdown on a 24-yard run, and Gavin Brown added the conversion for a 13-0 lead. In the second half, Caden Pina rushed 45 yards for another Quincy touchdown, and Quincy successfully made the conversion to increase their lead. Toland closed out the scoring in the 4th quarter on a 10-yard touchdown.

Grade 5 – The United 5th grade team remained perfect on the season at 7-0 as they cruised to another big win, defeating Weymouth. Quarterback Ryan Sampson (17-22, 250 yards passing), led the powerful United offense. Mecca Limage scored first for Quincy on a 42-yard touchdown run, and Nick Ambroult added the extra point. Jonas Ala scored next for Quincy as he reached the end zone on a 2-yard rush.

In the second quarter,

Sampson passed to tight end Eric Di Lima for a 9 yard touchdown, Di Lima added the extra point and Patrick Conner closed out first half scoring with a 16-yard run and Quincy held a 27-7 lead at the half. In the second half, Ala scored another touchdown and Gavin Brown and Gavin O'Hare both joined in the scoring with touchdown runs. Di Lima had 100 yards receiving and Ambroult had 100 total yards of offense. Ala also had a good game with 150 yards rushing for Quincy.

But, it was the O-line that set the tone for the offense with over 300 yards on the ground. The line was led by Adam Austin, Gavin Hutchings, Dante Marinilli, Gavin Brown, Breven Lyons and Imani Lugo. On defense, Quincy only let up 3 first downs all day and was led by Patrick Connor, Cullen McSweeney, Blake Nelson, Johjoe Ham, Gavin O'Hare, and Nick Monteiro-Spagnolo. Quincy United 5th grade will host Needham (6-1) Wednesday evening to close out their regular season.

Grade 4 – The weather conditions also plagued the United 4th graders, as Quincy could not muster any offense in a hard fought, turnover filled slug fest in the rain. The Wildcats scored first in the second quarter, and added a safety at the end of the first half for an 8-0 lead at halftime. That was all the scoring the teams would see as the second half was all defense for both teams.

Standouts for Quincy were Matt Travers, Noe Suenes, Zeke Ortiz, and Cash Murphy. Jake Campbell had a big sack for a loss to keep Quincy in the game.

Grade 2/3 – The Grade 2/3 United team bounced back after a tough loss at Wellesley with a big win over the previously unbeaten, Walpole Rebels, 19-7. Mike Boyle and Quarterback Trevor Gardner hooked up for 2 first half touchdown pass receptions (41 yards and 35 yards), and Logan Mann added a successful conversion to give Quincy a 13-0 lead at the half.

In the second half, Ayden Quinones recovered a fumble for Quincy to set up a 23-yard touchdown run by Gardner and increase Quincy's lead to 19-0. Playing well on defense were Jairo Fernandez, Jacob Corey, Joey Burke and 3J Limage. The Grade 2/3 United team finishes a very successful season at 7-1.

The Quincy-North Quincy Cross Country teams had a busy week with a cross-over meet at Whitman-Hanson and turning in many outstanding performances at the Patriot League Championships over at the Marshfield Fair Grounds.

At Whitman, the team only brought a shoe-string lineup as the meet was only three days from the league championship and, being a cross-over, it had no impact on all stars. Despite that scenario rookie senior Skye Matranga went out hard with Panther superstar Mya Kamperides. Panther Coach Steve George shortened the course from 3.1 to 2.5 to keep everyone's legs fresh for the weekend but Matranga ran nearly one minute faster than her best at Pageant field. Maura Hays and Viktoria Miller were the only other girls competing for QNQ.

On the boys side, freshman Peter Cooney and junior Matt Leonard ran outstanding times and most athletes ran much faster than they ran a week ago versus Plymouth South over the more challenging Pageant Field 2.5 mile course. The League Championship was held for the first time at the Marshfield Fair grounds. In the past Pembroke and Silver Lake had been the hosts so the team enjoyed the change of venue. Nearly every athlete ran the fastest 5k of their lives.

In the boys JV Bobby Donovan and Jonathan Bina ran outstanding times. Donovan has been plagued with knee issues all season so this was a pleasant surprise and he took 2nd over all in 18:04.

"Bobby's had a rough go of it," said Coach Geoff Hennessy. "He asked to go easy the past couple of days and it paid off. I've never seen him look faster." A 400 meter hurdler outdoors and a 600 meter runner indoors, he's using cross country for conditioning.

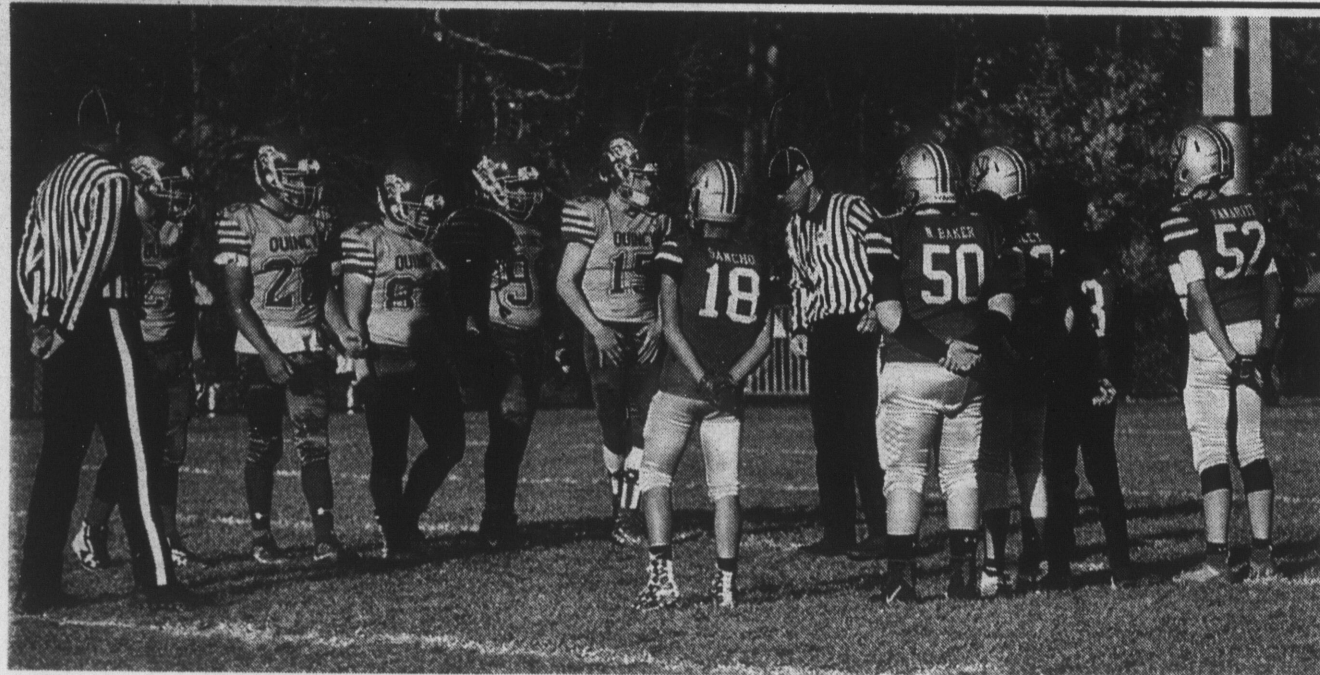

On the girls side both Maura Hays and Eileen Durgin both run under 24 minutes.

"We only kept 5 runners in varsity and ran the rest in JV so they would have the chance to be at the top of the field - it made a difference," Hennessy said.

In the boys varsity Robert Cannon had difficulties with the physicality of the start but still managed to place 15th, earn a medal and break 17 minutes. Braeden Kopp and Vinh Tran both broke 18 minutes.

On the girls side Lezly Acevedo finished 17th and Maeve White 23rd but both ran lifetime bests under 21 minutes. Cannon and Acevedo both earned league allstar while Kopp and White missed by one spot of being on the team.

The squad will compete in the Frank Mooney MSTCA Coaches invitational at the Wrentham Development Center. Each grade will have their own race with freshmen running 3K while the 10th, 11th and 12th graders will run a 5K. The top 50 finishers get medals and top three finishers get plaques.

NQ Apaches, Quincy United 5th Grade Advance In Bay State Playoffs

The North Quincy Apaches and Quincy United 5th grade teams both had big victories on Sunday, as the Apaches downed the Jr Presidents in a pivotal playoff matchup that all Quincy Youth Football fans wanted to see.

8th Grade Playoff (North Quincy vs Quincy)

North Quincy Apaches got a complete team defensive effort as they were able to shut down the hard rushing Quincy Jr Presidents' offense en route to a big victory and a spot in the Bay State semi-finals.

Ben Hudach opened the scoring when he capped off North's opening drive with an 8-yard touchdown. Noel Sancho kicked the PAT for an 8-0 North lead.

Ben Hudach caught a 25-yard pass from QB Charlie Baker for North's second touchdown and again Sancho added the extra points. Later in first half, Sancho rushed for a 30 yard touchdown.

The Jr Presidents answered with Gabe Rodrigues' 2-yard run for Quincy's first score, and rushed for the extra point, as North held the 22-7 advantage at the half. The Hudach brothers combined for two more touchdowns as Ben had a 30-yard touchdown run, and Dan Hudach scored on a 15-yard touchdown reception from Baker (3 touchdown passes) for another North touchdown. North coaches praised efforts of the offensive and defensive line led by Noah Baker, Brody Baker, Jialin Yu, Connor Walsh and Michael Phinney.

Playing well for the Jr Presidents all year were: Rodrigues, John Toland, Jordan Mahoney, Teddy Lynch, Brandon Toomer, Josh Cannon, Gavin Regan, Frankie Walsh, Reuben Santana, Taylen Marquez, Tayah Quinn, and Ryan Gomez. Coaches thanked the efforts of the entire team for a great season. The Apaches will advance to take on league leading Natick Redhawks in the semi-final matchup on Sunday in Braintree.

Grade 5 Playoff Game (Quincy United vs Brockton) - After suffering their only loss of the regular season Wednesday night to Needham, The Quincy United 5th grade team rebounded nicely and shut out the Brockton Raiders, 24-0 in the first round of 5th grade playoffs.

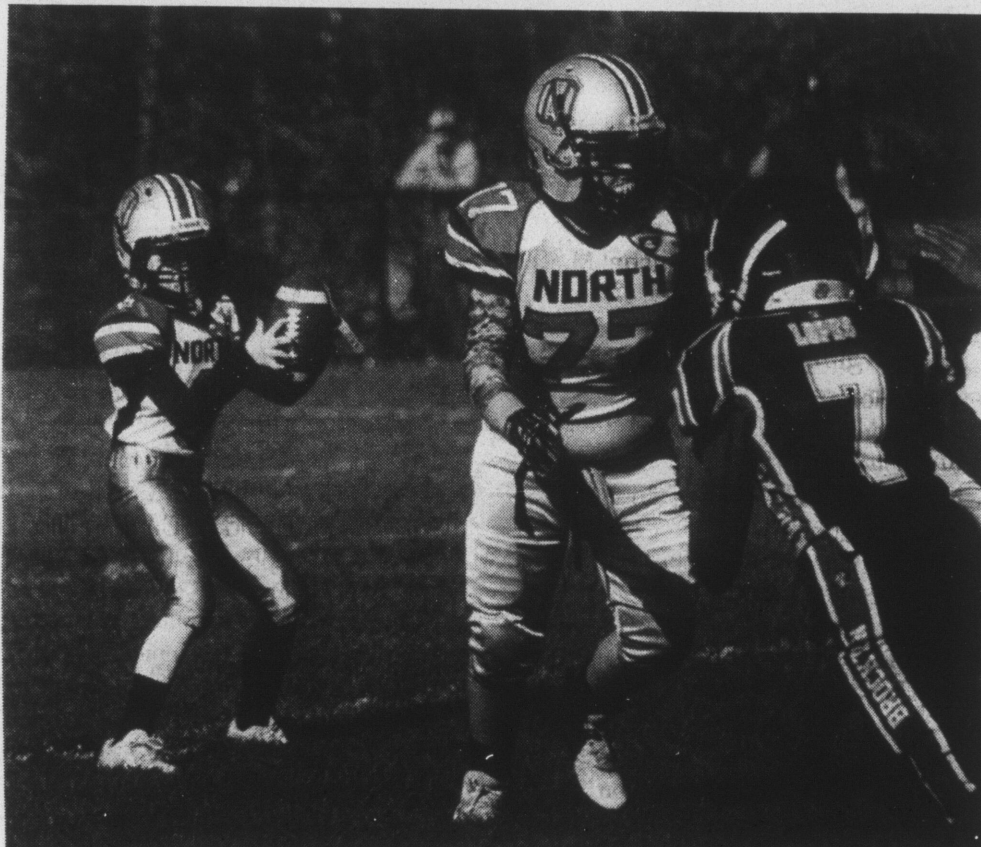

Quincy QB Ryan Sampson connected with Mecca Limage for 2 first half touchdown passes (50 and 35 yards), and Quincy took a 12-0 lead into the half. In the second half, Jonas Ala rushed for a 10-yard touchdown, and Limage finished off the scoring with a 25-yard touchdown. Quincy's offense was led by the hard running of Ala, Johjoe Ham, and Patrick Connors, as the trio racked up over 200 yards on the ground attack for Quincy.

It was a total team effort as Quincy's defense pitched a shutout over the Raiders, and made it tough for Brockton to move the ball all day. The defensive efforts were led by Breven Lyons, Gavin Brown, Eirc Di Lima, Adam Austin, and Blake Nelson.

Quincy United 5th graders will get a rematch against Needham, the team that dealt them their only loss of the season, in the Bay State Semi-Final game on Sunday in Braintree.

QUINCY QB Ryan Sampson (6) catches the snap while Breven Lyons (77) provides pass protection.

Registry Of Deeds Sponsoring 13th Annual Toys For Tots Drive

Norfolk County Registry of Deeds William O'Donnell announces today the Registry will be sponsoring its 13th Annual U.S. Marine Corps Reserve Toys for Tots drive.

"Every holiday season, the Registry witnesses firsthand the many acts of kindness and Christmas spirit as numerous people, ranging from Registry employees, title examiners, attorneys and the general public, drop off gifts," O'Donnell said. "I fondly remember one year a local mother whose two young children brought in toys because they believed that was what the Christmas spirit was all about."

This year marks the 72nd anniversary of Toys for Tots. The program was established in 1947 when the wife of a Marine major wanted to donate a Raggedy Ann doll for Christmas, but couldn't find an organization to take it. "Since that time 566 million gifts have been donated including 18 million toys last year," noted the Register.

The U.S. Marine Corps Reserve Toys for Tots program's mission is to help those less fortunate children experience the joy and happiness associated with Christmas. The program operates in 800 cities and towns throughout all 50 states. The Toys for Tots drives annually has 40,000 people involved in the drive, ranging from Marines to volunteers.

Donations of unwrapped new toys and games can be brought directly to the Norfolk County Registry of Deeds building located at 649 High St. in Dedham Center from Monday, Nov. 18 until noon on Wednesday, Dec. 11.

A marked donation bin will be set-up in the lobby which is open Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. until 4:30 p.m.

"We all have the power to make Christmas something special. Giving to the Toys for Tots truly represents the best of the holiday season," O'Donnell said.

and diesel above ground in 45 or more ambulances and 500 gallons of miscellaneous fuel.

Fallon now plans to move out of the site and sublease the property to Old Town Trolley Tours, Fleming said. The trolley company would move into the site in September 2020.

The applicant plans to store 3,000 gallons of diesel fuel in an above ground tank while using the site to fuel and repair its trolleys; the company's trolleys do not run on gasoline. Central Ave Auto would remain on site, with the building modified to separate it from the trolley depot.

ley depot.

Old Town Trolley Tours and Hudson Media are in talks to remove the below-ground fuel tanks on site, Fleming added.

Robert Gibson, the trolley company's commercial fleet manager, said trolley drivers are not allowed to fuel the vehicles. The company would employ five mechanics who would be the only ones allowed to do so.

"They are the only people who come in contact with that fuel pump. None of the drivers are allowed to touch it," Gibson said. "The vehicles come in, they are shut off, my mechanics fuel [them]. We record how much fuel that we install in the vehicle. The vehicle is then driven around the building and put to sleep at night."

The tanks on site presently are 19 years old, Gibson said; a tank's lifespan is between 20 and 25 years. He suggested the tanks could be filled with water until they are removed, but Fire Chief Jack Cadegan said the underground tanks cannot be abandoned in place and must be removed.

Fleming said the company would follow up with the property owner about that concern.

Richard Williams, the management agent for the SeaWinds Condominium trust at 90 Quincy Shore Dr., raised several concerns about the storage of fuel and operations at the trolley depot in a letter to the board, according to City Clerk Nicole Crispo. Crispo said those concerns could be addressed by the Fire Department.

Williams also raised a concern that notice was provided to the condominium association, and not the owners of the 150 condos in the building, Crispo said.

Fleming said it was his position that notice to the condo association, and not the unit owners, was proper.

"It still remains my position that the unit owners don't own the land, they own units within the building, and they actually assign the control and management of the facility to the condominium association, i.e. the management company, and they are entitled to notice," he said.

In addition, Fleming said it would be cumbersome to send notice through registered mail to each of the unit owners and would cost $2,700 to do so.

Pat Desmond, a resident of 90 Quincy Shore Dr., said each of the building's unit owners should have received notice from the applicant.

"Our position is that this is not sufficient," she said. "If they are going to quibble over $2,700 as the reason to not send out this to all of the owners, how are we going to get these things done that need to be done safely, like the tanks removed?"

Two other residents of the same building voiced similar concerns during the public hearing.

Following their comments, Crispo suggested the board continue the hearing on the matter until its next meeting on Nov. 12 to give the applicant time to reach out to neighbors.

"I appreciate everything that you've put together today. I think it's solid, but I just worry about notification," Crispo said.

Fleming agreed to the continuance and said he would work to arrange a meeting for neighbors before the next license board hearing.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) A rejection of your attempt to be friendly leaves you with two choices: Try again, or give up. If you want to make another effort, go slowly. Let things develop without pressure.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) It could be a problem dealing with unfamiliar people who do things differently from what you're used to. But rely on that strong sense of purpose to get you through this difficult period.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) To avoid neglecting a personal matter because of a demanding new workplace schedule, start prioritizing immediately. Knowing how to apportion your time takes a little while to set up.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) It won't be easy to avoid some of the pressures that come with change. Best advice: Take things a step at a time, and you'll be less likely to trip up while things are in a chaotic state.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) A much-talked-about workplace change could be coming soon. Be sure to get all the details involved in the process, and once you have them, you can decide how you want to deal with it.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) You might still believe that your trust was betrayed, although the facts would appear to prove the opposite. But by the week's end you should learn something that will help set the record straight.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Holiday plans could be a challenge because of shifting circumstances. But a more settled period starts by midweek, allowing you to firm up your plan-making once and for all.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) The facts continue to be on your side. So make use of them in dealing with any challenge to your stated position. Also, open your mind to the offer of help from an unlikely source.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) There could still be a communication problem holding up the resolution of a troublesome situation. Stay with it, and eventually your message will get through and be understood.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) A possible change in your workplace schedule might create a chaotic situation for a while. But once things begin to settle down, you might find that this could work to your advantage.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) A recent job-linked decision might need to be reassessed because of the possibility of finding benefits you might have overlooked. Check out all related data to help in the search.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) A personal situation you agreed to might not be as acceptable to the other person involved in the matter. Avoid pressuring and bullying. Instead, seek common ground by talking things through.

BORN THIS WEEK: You have a gift for touching people's minds as well as their hearts. You would make an outstanding educator.

HOLLYWOOD

by Tony Rizzo

HOLLYWOOD -- The resurrection of the 1978 John Travolta/Olivia Newton-John musical "Grease" will be newborn from the collaboration of Paramount Studios and HBO Max. The project is to be a download series, "Grease: Rydell High," reimagined and set in the '50s with new songs. The estates of the "Grease" composers are withholding rights to the score, especially "Greased Lightnin'" and "Summer Nights." The sequel of the original film, "Grease 2," which starred Michelle Pfeiffer, Maxwell Caulfield and Judy Garland's daughter Lorna Luft (who stole the movie), was a dismal failure that cost $11 million and grossed only $15 million. One of the reasons it failed was because its producer, the late Allen Carr, used the film as his personal casting couch in selecting young male talent. "Grease" without John and Olivia and that wonderful musical score? Is that the best they could come up with?

Billy Porter, who arrived at the Oscars in a ballgown and picked up his Emmy for "Pose" in a flamboyant pantsuit, has been given a big role in Sony's upcoming "Cinderella" film as ... you guessed it, the Fairy Godmother! But before we see that we'll see Porter with Tiffany Haddish, Rose Byrne and Salma Hayek in "Like a Boss," in theaters Jan. 10. Ryan Reynolds and John Krasinski are teaming up in "Imaginary Friends." Krasinski will write, produce and star with Reynolds, who also will co-produce. It's about a man who sees and talks to imaginary friends, some of whom have turned to the dark side. Kerry Washington also has been busy. She stars with Sterling K. Brown in "Shadow Force," Reese Witherspoon in "Little Fires Everywhere" and Jeremy Jordan in the Netflix film "American Son."

Director Ryan Murphy and Netflix have picked up the Tony-nominated Broadway show "The Prom," which will star Meryl Streep, Nicole Kidman, Kerry Washington, James Corden, Keegan-Michael Key and Andrew Rannells. Streep plays a two-time Tony Award winner who teams up with Corden as stars of a flop Broadway musical about Eleanor Roosevelt. The film follows the stars as they try to get publicity by taking up the cause of an Indiana girl whose prom has been canceled rather than allow her to bring her girlfriend as her date.

That talented Neil Patrick Harris will co-star with Keanu Reeves in "Matrix 4." Speculation about the "top secret" script is that Neil Patrick will be a formidable opponent. He's currently completing the Neil Bogart bio-pic "Spinning Gold," with Michelle Monaghan, Samuel L. Jackson, Kenan Thompson, Jay Pharoah and D.L. Hughley. Bogart discovered Donna Summer, Kiss, the Village People, Gladys Knight & the Pips and the Isley Brothers. Wow, it'll be like an '80s flashback ... Doogie Howser meets the Village People on a Summer Knight!

By Terry and Kim Kovel

'Adam Style' Settee --- The auction described the settee as "in the Adam taste," but an online search for the words won't explain what that means. When it says "Chippendale style" in a catalog, it means it is a reproduction made long after the original pieces designed and made by Thomas Chippendale in the 18th century. "Adam taste" is even more confusing. There were two Adam brothers who died in the 1790s. Their work is now called the "style of the Brothers Adam" or "Adam style." It was popular in the late 1760s. The brothers designed the building, then designed and made all the furnishings, including fireplace mantels, fixtures, fittings, carpets and, of course, furniture. The look spread to Scotland and Russia, and inspired Federal style in the United States.

The brothers admired and adapted the classical designs of Greece and Rome. They wrote a book with their engraved designs, which made their ideas available to everyone. Pastel color combinations of green, blue, yellow, lilac, pink and terra-cotta were possible with new, affordable, lighter paint colors. The rooms had classical scenes on the walls along with swags, ribbons and plaques. This settee in the style of the Brothers Adam is made in a simple shape of paint-decorated satinwood with a caned back, arms and seat. It sold for $1,250.

Q: As a young boy, my husband received a Popeye doorstop. He's had it since about 1939. It says "1929, King Feature SYN" on it. Can you tell us anything about it and its worth? It's certainly a keepsake!

A: Popeye first appeared in 1929 in a comic strip called "Thimble Theatre." The character and the comic strip were created by Elzie Crisler Segar and distributed by King Features Syndicate. Popeye became a hit with readers and is still a popular character. He has appeared in comic books, cartoons, a full-length movie featuring Robin Williams as Popeye, on a postage stamp, and on toys and novelty items. The Popeye doorstop was made by Hubley Manufacturing Company, which was in business in Lancaster, Pennsylvania, from 1894 to 1965. The date on your doorstop is the copyright date for the character, not the date it was made. Popeye collectibles are sought after and bring high prices. The value of your doorstop is about $2,000 if the paint is in good condition.

Strange BUT TRUE

* It was infamous French statesman and military leader Napoleon Bonaparte who made the following sage observation: "In politics, absurdity is not a handicap."

* In 2006, an Illinois police officer was arrested for driving under the influence of alcohol. This probably would not be noteworthy, except that it was the same police officer who received an award for making the most DUI arrests in his county.

* A single pound of sequoia seeds contains roughly 90,000 individual seeds.

* You might be surprised to learn that sloths can hold their breath longer than dolphins -- much longer. Dolphins come up to the surface for air about every 10 minutes, while sloths can go 40 minutes without taking a breath.

* Evidently it's not just humans who associate a deeper voice with maturity (and desirability) in males.

It seems that male owls try to appear more macho and attract females by lowering the tone of their hoots.

* Did you know that in a random group of 23 people, there's a 50% likelihood that two will share a birthday? It seems counterintuitive -- there are, after all, 365 days in a year -- but the number-crunchers assert that it's true. In a group of 57 people, it's almost certain that two of them will have the same birthday -- the chances are more than 99%. Once you get up to 124 people, the chances are only 1 in 100 trillion that there won't be a duplicated birthday.

* Those who keep track of such things say that about 15% of all Google searches are new -- that is, they have never been searched before on Google.

Now here's a tip!

by Jo Ann Derson

* Here's another item to add to your environmentally friendly choices list: If you're not going to eat takeout food in the car, just say no to plastic utensils. They are usually packaged in a plastic bag with a napkin, so there's even more you could be saving in waste.

* Make your own whipped butter for dinner rolls. Simply let butter come to room temperature, then whip in your electric mixer until it's nice and fluffy. Chill, or drop by teaspoonful onto a cold cookie sheet lined with parchment paper. Freeze, and then you can arrange them on a plate for a nice presentation. They thaw quickly.

* Add to a pot of water a cinnamon stick, a handful of cloves, two slices of citrus (orange, lemon or both) and some cardamom pods if you have them. Put on a slow simmer, and your house will smell so good!

* Here's a great cooking tip when you want to sear meat: Make sure you pat it dry using either paper towels or a kitchen cloth specifically for that purpose. Any moisture on the meat will cause it to steam cook.

* Want a quick snack that tastes great? Try spicing your own peanuts with this recipe from the National Peanut Board: In a skillet, heat 1 teaspoon of peanut oil over medium heat. Stir in 1 cup of peanuts and toast for about 1 minute. Next, stir in your choice of spices and cook for 1-2 minutes or until spices smell fragrant. Remove peanuts from the pan to drain well on paper towels. Serve warm or at room temperature. How about turkey and ginger, or cilantro with chili powder and cumin?

Ferris said his father was a captain at the time and flew months later was promoted to colonel at the age of 27. He became the commander of the Hawaiian air depot at Hickam and was chief maintenance test pilot.

While Col. Ferris was serving at Hickam, his son said that "an unusual gang of people came together."

One was Navy Capt. James Green who ironically was a childhood friends of Ferris' parents in Michigan and was stationed at Pearl Harbor.

"He had two boats shot out from under him because he so aggressive," said Ferris. "He once made a kill shot of a lifetime when he hit a Japanese destroyer head on."

Capt. Green became the third largest tonnage commander in the Pacific Theater and later became commander of the naval submarine school at Groton, Conn.

WREATH WAS PLACED at the base of the main flag pole at Flags for Veterans Island in memory of all deceased veterans.

Ferris said he and his six siblings called him "Uncle Captain."

He also talked of his late brother-in-law, Navy Lt. Commander Gordon S. Hahn who graduated from medical school and was a flight surgeon. After retiring, he established a medical practice in Florida.

Another of the group was Four-Star Gen. Emmett E. "Rosie" O'Donnell, retired as Air Force chief of personnel, Ferris' godfather.

"He was one of my father's early commanders," said Ferris.

O'Donnell led the first major air attacks on Tokyo and was wing commander on a mission to bomb Tinian Island.

A "special person" Ferris served with while in the Air Force was Vietnam Air Force Lt. Gen. Daniel James III whom he mentored.

"When I knew him we were both captains," he said. "We grew close."

Ferris said his friend's last assignment was commander of the national Air National Guard

"His good friend, George W. Bush just happened to be president at the time and he had made him commander of Texas Air National Guard," Ferris said.

Ferris noted James III's father was Daniel "Chap-pie" James, the first African American to attain the rank of four-star general, who served as an Air Force Ace in Korea and Vietnam.

James III, who died suddenly two years ago, is buried at Arlington National Cemetery within a few hundred yards of his parents and Ferris' parents.

Ferris said all veterans, past and present need to be honored.

"All around us we have great veterans," he said. "It's people you see in everyday life. Just say, 'thank-you.' They're not looking for anything else. And, make sure you honor the present troops. That's a big concern of ours, too. Always take care of any veteran you know."

Memorial wreaths were placed at the flagpole and the island's memorial. A roll call of Quincy's deceased veterans was then read followed by a rifle volley and the playing of Taps.

One of the squadron 294's founders, Robert LaFleur, was given a life time member award by Moody in recognition of outstanding loyalty and dedication to the squadron.

"This honor recognizes a commitment dominated towards the programs, activities, and ideals of the Sons of the American Legion, dedicated to God and country," said Moody.

LaFleur expressed his appreciation for the honor.

"I'm overwhelmed," he said. "Twenty years ago we started the squadron and we didn't know how it would turn out. One of the best things we did, and I'm proud of, is we made Paul Moody commander."
